Seventh grade students of St. Salome School visited the Irondequoit Town Hall this week as part of a "Know Your City and Government" campaign. Here members of the school civics club talk with Frederick Hussey, town supervisor.

St. Salome's Civics Club Interviews Town Leaders

Representatives of "Our Lady's Future Citizens Civics Club" of St. Salome's seventh grade recently added another step to their five week campaign on "Know Your City and Government."

Through the courtesy of Elmer Hart, town clerk of Irondequoit, a group of students were conducted through Irondequoit Town Hall. This enabled the children to see and hear explained the actual operations of government.

As part of the group toured the buildings, three members were privileged to interview the Town Supervisor, Fredrick Hussey. They were Warner Brodner, in charge of the tour, James DeMarse and Jacqueline Heh. The students questioned the supervisor on suggestions a civics club may do to be more helpful to the town, his opinion on school patrols, and how he met with the snow situation recently.

AMONG OTHER contacts made by the Civics Club were an interview with Monsignor Boyle, who commended the children on their civics club activities; the entire student body toured Eastman Kodak, to see the freedom of workers and fair labor treatment by city industry; interviews with the personnel of St. Mary's Hospital brought before them the spirit of sacrifice necessary for relieving sufferers; Gary McKeone interviewed Judge James Sheehan to report the operations of the judicial work of the city.

All these projects are recorded in the class paper, "The Lights of Liberty," a three page newsletter, mimeographed and edited by the student body.

The officers of "Our Lady's Future Citizens" are Cathie Pryor, president; Gary [illegible], president; Pamela Tarkington, recording secretary; [illegible], corresponding secretary; Suzanne Maxwell, treasurer; and Thomas Ahern, sergeant-at-arms.

Vatican Paper Hits Bombing In Tunisia

Vatican City (NC) L'Osservatore della Domenica, Vatican City weekly, deplored the French bombing of the Tunesian town of Sakiet Sidi Youssef earlier this month.

It termed the bombing, in which women and children were killed, "extreme" and noted that it has made solution of the Algerian problem more difficult. In addition, the paper said, it has "delivered a new blow at the solidarity of the western allies."

Lay Apostolate Lecture Draws Overflow Crowd

The first of a series of four Lenten lectures, sponsored by the Rochester Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, drew an over flow crowd at the Catholic Evidence Library at the Columbus Civic Center last Monday.

Mrs. Theodore Strohmeyer, president of the council, said that next week's lecture, "Intellectual Formation," which will be given by the Rev. Joseph L. Hogan, will be given at Corpus Christi Parish Hall, Main St. E. and Prince St., at 8 p.m. Monday, March 10.

THE SERIES on the lay apostolate was begun Monday with a talk by the Rev. E. Leo McManus. Father McMannus based his talk on an address given by His Holiness, Pope Pius XII last October to the second world congress of the lay apostolate.

In stressing the urgent need for the active support by the laity of the teaching authority of the church, Father McMannus pointed out that the idea of the laity as "the passive Church is an erroneous concept. "The lay person," he said, "has a definite responsibility. Irresponsibility, apathy, intellectual sloth and sectarianism or Ghetto Catholicism, must be overcome in an ever-widening effort to give oneself in love to all and for all that the Church of Jesus Christ may be brought to those who are asking."

Mrs. Strohmeyer spoke on the practical aspects of the lay apostolate. Mrs. Arthur Farren, chairman of the series, said that all women interested in attending the remaining lectures on March 10, 24 and 31 are most welcome. For registration call Mrs. Farren at GE. 8-1446-J or Mrs. Lawrence Weis at GE. 8-8322-M. The lectures start at 8 p.m.

Lenten Masses At St. Agnes

Students at St. Agnes High School are given the opportunity during the Lenten season to attend Mass in the school auditorium at 10:30 each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. This practice of the school gives the students the opportunity to eat breakfast before 7:30 and still receive Holy Communion at Mass.

Communicants at the Mass are averaging 600 each of the four days. On Wednesday, the girls are urged to attend evening Mass at their own church and to receive Communion. Father John LeVeque, school chaplain, says the Mass during the week.
