Movie Rerated

New York — (NC) — The classification of the motion picture "Last Paradise," which had been evaluated in Class C — condemned — has been changed to Class B — morally objectionable in part for all — it has been announced here by the National Legion of Decency.

The Legion said that "substantial revisions" have been made in the picture to warrant the classification change but that the movie still is objectionable on the ground of suggestive dancing and costuming.

Oscar Winner Movie In Legion's Family Rating

Hollywood — (NC) — "The Bridge on the River Kwai," Oscar winner as the best moving picture of the year, is rated as family entertainment by the National Legion of Decency.

The Legion classification for the film which was honored by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences is A-1, or "morally unobjectionable for general patronage."

All five films nominated by the academy for "best picture" awards are in the Legion's A-classification. Two are classified A-1, family entertainment; two in A-2, suitable for adults and adolescents, and one as A-3, for adults only.

The nominees, in addition to the winner, were: "12 Angry Men," A-1; "Sayonara," A-2; "Witness for the Prosecution," A-2, and "Peyton Place," A-3.
