Bishop Kearney Honored by Nurses At Annual Diocesan Council Dinner

Three hundred forty persons attended the annual dinner of the Rochester Diocesan Council of Catholic Nurses honoring His Excellency Bishop Kearney, the council's founder, on April 13 in the Powers Hotel.

Bishop Kearney and the Rev. Thomas O'Donnell, S.J., regent of Georgetown University School of Medicine and author of Morals in Medicine, nationally known text book, spoke.

Gratitude of the Bishop was expressed to the nurses for their prayers during his illness and to his "Quartette" as he terms them, the four nurses who cared for him. The Bishop noted that the four were present.

Bishop Kearney expressed his thanks to the Catholic nurses for their spiritual bouquet and gift at the time of his anniversary celebration.

Calling attention to the centenary year of the Lourdes Apparitions, the Bishop urged his listeners to serve Christ by imitating His Blessed Mother.

Father O'Donnell prefaced his address by relating the praiseworthy qualities of Bishop Kearney of which he heard on coming to this city.

Discussing "Vocation of a Nurse," his topic, the noted Jesuit educator told how Christ needs the nurse to fulfill His will among men. Many people, he said, who do not learn of Christ from the nurse will never learn of Him.

"Goodness need not be publicized nor need it be hidden," Father O'Donnell said. "The nurse must act as the hand of Christ to dispense the goodness of His Sacred Heart. The speaker referring to the statue of the Sacred Heart in the Cathedral said that there is a reminder.

At a meeting of the executive board prior to the dinner, Loretta Linehan of Geneva was reelected president and Barbara Hogan of Cananagoia, secretary; other officers are Bessie Burns of Auburn, vice president; Nancy Mangano of Rochester, treasurer. Anne Falvey of Auburn was toastmistress. Others at the speakers' table included Monsignor Edward Ball, V.F., Geneva, Monsignor Dennis W. Hickey, Monsignor Gregory Dugas, Rev. Paul G. Wohlrab, chaplain, and Rev. Charles B. Connell, Corbelita Astraqillo was heard in vocal solos.

Eight chapters were represented including Rochester, Auburn, Cananagoia, Corning, Elmira, Geneva, Hornell and Sonyea.
