Mr. Pepsi says

In today's assembly line age buildings are still made to order. Each expresses the individual architect's ingenuity; but the workman's skill is needed to erect it properly. Some buildings soar to the sky, a beauty to behold. Others are squat and ugly. People are like buildings in this respect. Most children grow into adults who stand like the magnificent cathedral tall and upright. Others become morally stunted and spiritually ugly. What today's child becomes depends on us, the builders. Only we can help the Great Architect fulfill his dream of better "buildings". Many less fortunate children need the Red Feather services. CARE ENOUGH-GIVE NOUGH

12 St. Agnes Seniors Get Filing Awards

Twelve seniors from St. Agnes High School have received Filing Award Certificates from the awards department of the Gregg Publishing Company. The tests are published monthly by the publishing company as a service to educators.

The girls who participated in the test and received awards are June Baker, Dorothy Graf, Dorothy Schmitt, Kathleen Bauer-schmitt, Ann Marie Salvaggio, Elaine Healy, Loretta Fien, Joyce Deisinger, Jeanne Fleischauer, Betty Schlegel, Suzanne Lang and Joanne Yavman.

An award was received last week by Mary Rich, a sophomore, who was a winner in the poetry contest sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America.

An open meeting of the Student Council was held last week in the auditorium of St. Agnes High School. The entire student body was asked to join in drawing up the qualifications which next year's officers of the Student Council will have to meet in the coming elections.

The ability to lead and the possession of a good personality were not the only desirable things to be found in the future candidates. They must have given some evidence of good organizing ability, be able to speak well and easily in public, they must have shown interest in school activities and be willing to carry things to a finish.

It was decided that the secretary of the Student Council need not only these qualities, but she must also be able to summarize ideas and record them neatly. All of these suggestions were made from the student body.

They have been duplicated and posted in each homeroom so that the students can keep them in mind to prepare for the primaries which will be held May 9. Nominees will speak to the student body on May 29 and elections will follow.
