Graphic Description of Faith

Priest's Booklet Published

By FRANK KELLY

Father E. Charles Bauer, assistant pastor of St. Francis of Assisi Church, Rochester, has announced the publication of a catechetical instruction booklet, "A Graphic Description of Christian Doctrine," by The Queen's Work of St. Louis, Mo.

Father Bauer said that the booklet, which is based on the Baltimore Catechism, "is intended as a graphic representation of the fundamental truths of the Catholic Religion."

Based on manuscripts that he has used for the instruction of converts over the past eight years, the booklet simplifies the teaching of doctrines as expressed in the Baltimore catechism.

"This booklet can also be used for instruction by the nuns in their religion classes and for release-time instruction," Father Bauer said. "In release-time instruction it will be especially valuable," he related.

"Where in the Baltimore or other catechisms that are in use today, the pupils are generally taught by rote, in my booklet, the students get a graphic description that will enable them to grasp the truths of Catholicism much more easily," he said.

"I compiled this booklet after several of my priest-friends advised me to do so," Father Bauer related. "Actually, I have found it very helpful in my convert work during the past eight years, and I hope it helps others in this work as it has helped me."

TO SHOW the effect of this new booklet, Father Bauer said that he had started one of his present potential converts on the Baltimore catechism. Midway through the instruction, he switched to the new booklet.

"The effect on my student was remarkable," Father Bauer related. "He told me that this booklet made all these teachings so much clearer and so much easier to understand."

The booklet purposely has no text.

It gives each teacher the opportunity to express in his own way the teachings of Catholicism and with spaces for notes, it gives the student the opportunity to write down these teachings in the best way he can remember them.

"The booklet is also meant to give every Catholic a review and refresher course on his beliefs, and enable him to recall the truths that have been taught him in the past," Father Bauer added.

Published at a cost of 50 cents, the booklet is available at Trant's. It contains the imprimatur of His Excellency Bishop Kearney.
