The 4,000 who siterided the elvic opening heard Bishop Kearney, Lt. Gov. George DeLuca who welcomed the delegates in the name of New York State and Mayor Peter Barry bringing city's greetings.

Also heard were Col. Emil G. Eckert, head of Rochester Regiment, Mrs. Julia Welsmiller, president of the local district auxiliary and Mrs. Haszlauer. supreme auxiliary president.

Bishop Kearney termed the organizations assembled as "men and women who commit themselves to the honor of God and the preservation of the ideals of America." Referring to the milltary aspect of the order he said "in life there is always something worth fighting for," and urged members to battle for decency in literature and films against misinterpretation of the concept of separation of Church and State.

"This concept," he said, "does not mean that God has no place in the life of the country. God belongs everywhere, and until we admit that, we court the danger of delinquency and other ills that follow the ignoring of God's
