GI's Paved Way For U.S. Missioner

Chunman, Formosa — Contrary to some of the harsh things said about the United States throughout the world today—not everybody hates Americans.

For example, take the recent experience of Father Timothy J. Daley, M.M., of Palmer, N.Y., who arrived in a remote village to start a new mission.

The first man he encountered recognized him as an American and immediately offered to help him get started. The man explained how he had first encountered Americans while serving with the Japanese Army in New Guinea during the last war. Captured by American soldiers, he expected to be killed but instead was treated by American doctors and repatriated to Formosa.

The young man expressed his appreciation toward Americans by asking Father Daley if he could become a Catholic with the simple explanation, "If Americans have anything to do with it, it must be good!"

Our Lady of Fatima will be shown with her arms extended downward, offering to the world her Rosary — 80 feet in length.
