Nun Trio Records First Album

Three Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary—who are also blood sisters—have recorded their first album for Capitol Records in Hollywood.
Known as the Immaculate Heart Trio, the Sisters gave their first concert in 1949 as part of a cultural series offered by the Immaculate Heart College music department in Los Angeles.
IT WAS AT such a concert that the trio was heard by Robert Myers, an artist and repertoire representative of Capitol Records. Myers, impressed by the rare artistry of the group, signed the sisters to a Capitol contract.
Their first album, on release July 21, is a performance of Schubert's Trio No. 2 in E Flat Major, Opus 100. The Trio's repertoire is most extensive, including works by such composers as Beethoven, Brahms, Schubert, Ravel and Pizetti.
Critics have hailed their "flawless playing" and the "ineffable beauty" of their performances and have predicted that the Trio "will take its place in the forefront of chamber-music groups."
THE SISTERS - Sister M. Mark, pianist; Sister M. Denis, violinist; and Sister M. Anthony, cellist—first played at the Zeyen Trio in Seattle when the youngest was only five. The sisters won prizes and were heard by radio audiences throughout the Northwest.
After the family moved to Los Angeles, the two older sisters entered the Immaculate Heart Novitiate and the trio was temporarily disbanded.
The youngest, still in high school, became a member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, remaining as cellist for three seasons. Then she played for one year in the 20th Century-Fox studio orchestra before entering the Immaculate Heart order.
