No Down Payment Is Magnet TO Entress Developments

By FRANK J. GIBLIN

Joseph Entress, builder and developer of 'Homar' in Greece and 'Vilmar' in Scottsville, reports an active demand for his homes by veterans taking advantage of the no down payment phase of V.A. financing.

Both tracts offer an atmosphere of seclusion to the residents that appears to encourage a high degree of neighborliness. It was observed recently at a 'Homar' get-together out-of-doors.

For the most part, those who have purchased homes in Entress developments in both communities, are young couples with growing children. Homes are planned with the future in mind with facilities for expansion built-in to the dwellings.

A cross-sectional survey of both Homar and Vilmar residents revealed that the home owners place high value on the 'hidden values' contained in Entress homes.

Joseph Entress recently made national news by being the first builder in the United States to adopt a policy of furnishing every home that he builds with a high-quality American Flag and standard.

According to Mr. Entress' belief, our country's flag should be as important to a home as the lock on the front door, because it symbolizes the American Way of Life contained in home ownership.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a resolution commending Joseph Entress for his patriotic effort, indicated that they hope that other builders here and throughout the nation, will follow his example.

It took considerable moral courage for a builder to make a decision of this kind, for there was the danger of criticism from some sources to the effect that the builder was using the flag to his advantage. In the case of Mr. Entress there were no adverse comments but many sincere congratulations for his admirable decision.

SPONGE APPLIES STAIN
Use a cellulose sponge to apply stain. The sponge holds more stain, and spreads it more evenly than a brush.

SMALL ROLLER HANDY
Small paint rollers are available that are ideal for painting woodwork, sash and screens without leaving brush marks.

QUESTION BOX

Q—The "jet-age" appearance of our new room air conditioner makes it stand out like a sore thumb in our early American living room. Any idea what we can do to make it look like it belongs?

A—Try hiding the air conditioner behind louver-shutters of ponderosa pine. When stained in natural wood tones, these shutters suit any early American decor, and the louvers permit the air conditioner to operate efficiently.

Q—Roots from a tree in our front yard get into a drainpipe and I have to pay a plumber annually to ream the roots out. Is there any other solution to this problem?

A—Next time the drain seems to be nearly plugged, mix a solution of 2 ounces of copper sulphate crystals to one gallon of water and pour down the pipe. The roots will stop the solution and give it a chance to work. It burns off root ends without damaging the tree. One treatment a year usually is enough.

SHELLAC OLD WALLPAPER
If you plan to put new wallpaper over old, coat the old paper with a thin layer of shellac first. This gives the new paper a smooth surface to adhere to, and prevents bleeding of colors from the old paper.

TAPED FUSE HANDY
Avoid being caught short in the dark by taping a spare fuse inside the fuse box. It'll be available when an emergency arises.

'INSTANT' DOOR AVAILABLE
Doors that can be installed in minutes by a home handyman can be obtained from building material dealers. These are of ponderosa pine, with the panel door pre-hung in its frame at the factory.
