Missioner's Work Aided By Truck

BY LARRY PATRICK

Presently, missionaries have at least one advantage over businessmen of long-gone ages.

When missionaries go to a new area, they do not have to pack up their goods and take them with them. They can simply pack up their truck and drive down to Florida this week to place it aboard a transport ship bound for the Bahamas possession off the coast of Florida.

Father Paul is a member of the Sacred Heart Mission Society, which is a Canadian order similar to our own Maryknoll Fathers.

The order was founded around 1920 in a little community near Toronto. The order has been doing mission work in the Bahamas for the past four years.

"WE HAVE SIX Seaboard boats doing mission work on the islands," Father Paul said. "But the sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, have been there for the last 50 years.

"The Benedictines also have a large representation on the islands, where they have done a tremendous amount of work," he added. The Seaboard Fathers work under Bishop Paul Hagerly, O.S.B.

Father Paul said that the natives are not adverse to the missionaries. "But the difference in the people's primitiveness is tremendous," he said. "On one island, they are very advanced toward modern civilization, but the natives in other islands are very primitive.

"Of course, the difference in climate is tremendous," he reported. "Where in Canada we have snow and ice down there they have only two seasons. Summer and the hurricane season.

"Swimming is the big recreation on the islands," he said, "and you never have to worry about swimming alone. There will always be one or two sharks swimming closely.

"We never have to worry about the sharks," he continued. "They will only attack a dead person or one who is bleeding.

"We had one instance where an American sailor fell off a boat while fishing. He was scared to death of the sharks, which were swimming quite close to him.

"But, a nine-year-old native boy swam out to him and pulled the sailor into shore. All he was trying to do was to tell the sailor that the sharks won't hurt you. There was no thought of bravery on the boy's part."

BUT SWIMMING ISN'T the only thing Father Paul does.

He is in charge of several mission centers in the northern part of Eleuthera Island. His home mission is St. Paul's, named after the first great missionary and his own patron.

Father Paul also founded a mission at Rock Sound, on the same island, which he named after St. Anne. He takes care of these two and several other missions.

The truck will enable him to visit his missions quicker each day, since a distance of about 80 miles separates them.

HE TRAVELS ALONG a straight road made from the coral found throughout the islands. Although the coral has been macadamized, fires on the trucks will only last about 7,000 miles, due to the sharp edges of the coral.
