Father Ralph Meyer

Pastor In A College Town

By FRANK KELLY

The Fall season in Western New York is one of rich color and splendor and it is the season when many families take advantage of beautiful weather to drive about to capture the beauty of the season.

One such place a family could drive to and drive much pleasanter is the town of Aurora in Cayuga County.

ONE OF THE oldest villages in Cayuga County, New York, located on the eastern side of Cayuga Lake and was one of the first sites that French Jesuit missionaries came to evangelize the Indians.

The first missionaries, Father Joseph Guerin, Remy Menard, Stephen de La Roche and Peter Rabbat, came to the town in August 1666 to teach the Cayuga Indians.

EXTERIOR VIEW of St. Patrick's Church, Aurora, shows that the edifice follows the classical lines of churches built prior to 1950.

Now, 200 years later, Father Ralph Meyer, present pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Aurora, and St. Michael's Church, French Springs, evokes the same colorful spirit seen in those first missionaries as he goes about his pastoral duties in spreading the faith.

APPOINTED HERE in 1947, Father Meyer is a typical representative of the type of priest that were raised for a small town, although he is a native of a big city. Rochester.

Quiet, unassuming, but with a dignified bearing, Father Meyer is a priest that is greatly loved by his parishioners.

A man of broad vision, he has been assigned since his ordination in 1947 to Father Meyer in his own quiet way has accepted the administration of his flock.

The 1947 parish was a parish that was founded in 1841. This was published in 1870 and that it was organized in 1878, but the first Mass was not held until Jan. 20, 1841. Father Meyer will celebrate his 20th anniversary as a priest on Nov. 15.

FATHER WILLIAM QUIGLEY was the first priest of the town that was settled by Irish immigrants. He came in 1841. Priests from Aurora of Mass. previous to his appointment in Aurora.

During Father Quigley's tenure, Father Meyer's first year as pastor of St. Patrick's was a year of reconstruction, in the grade bracket in the town of French Springs. Father Meyer also organized the Holy Name Society and the League of Bookers, who are past masters of St. Patrick's.

The first church property was purchased during Father Meyer's tenure.

One of the students has to get up at 5:30 every morning in order to go to school, but her parents are so intent about their children getting a Catholic education, that they convinced her it was worth it.

There are two former pastors of St. Patrick's still serving the parish. They are Father Henry Donohue, who is at St. Michael's Church, French Springs, and Father William Adams, who is at St. Michael's Church, French Springs.
