of Thanksgiving*

Thankfulness and Togetherness . . . they are the great forces behind Thanksgiving Day. For in celebrating the beauty and abundance of the harvest, in counting the blessings of the year and praying for peace and plenty, it is basic to our human condition that we do it in company of our loved ones. Turkey, cranberry sauce, and spicy pumpkin pie are the outward signs of thankfulness. The true symbols are the looks that pass between parents, the laughter of children, the mixture of hopes and memories that fill every household . . . i.e., Togetherness.

To all our friends this Thanksgiving, Sheehan's wish just these two wishes . . . Thankfulness and Togetherness. To us, they seem like the most beautiful harvest in the world.
