from its original few hundred families to become one of the largest parishes in the Rochester Diocese.

Father Muckle purchased the property on which the parish church, school, convent and rectory now stand.

He supervised construction of the combination church and school and expanded it in 1948.

He also built a new convent for the Sisters of Mercy who staff the school and completely renovated a house purchased in 1922 and converted it into the present rectory at the corner of St. Paul Blvd. and Colebrook Dr. He retired as pastor in 1954, due to failing health.

FATHER MUCKLE was ordained to the priesthood on June 6, 1908 after completing his theological training at St. Andrew's and St. Bernard's Seminaries.

He received his early schooling in Yates County public schools and Dansville High School. He also attended Keuka College, St. Hyacinth College, Quebec, and St. Michael's College, Toronto.

After being ordained to the priesthood, Father Muckle served as professor at St. Bernard's Seminary for three years. In 1911, he was named assistant pastor of Holy Rosary Church, Rochester, and two years later was named principal of DeSales High School, Geneva while being attached to St. Francis DeSales Church. He held this post for several years.

FATHER MUCKLE was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Muckle of Stanley. His priest-brothers are Father Charles Muckle of Avon, Father Joseph T. Muckle, C.S.B. of Toronto, and Father William Muckle, also of Toronto.

His nun-sister is Sister Mary Charles Muckle who is at St. John the Evangelist convent, Rochester. Father Muckle was the last surviving member of the 1908 class ordained for the Rochester Diocese.

In addition to his priest-brothers and his nun-sister, Father Muckle is survived by another brother, Andrew of Stanley and two other sisters, Mrs. John E. McWilliams and Mrs. George D. McWilliams, both of Stanley.

Communist Barrage

Berlin—(RNS)—Josef Cardinal Frings, Archbishop of Cologne, was the target of a new barrage of denunciation in Neues Deutschland as "a rigid advocate of West German atomic armament."

Carmelite Christmas Mass A TV 'Scoop'

A "television scoop" will be made when WROC-TV telecasts Christmas morning Mass from the Carmelite Monastery, Rochester. It will be the first such program in the United States to originate "live" from a chapel of these cloistered nuns. Photo shows Sister Elizabeth, extern nun, arranging altar candles for the 10 to 11 a.m. telecast.

Priest Replaces Red In Parliament

Paris — (NC) — Escorted by a military guard an old man in the simple cassock of a priest entered the French National Assembly and prayed to God for aid in directing the destiny of France.

General Charles de Gaulle rose from his official place as Premier to welcome him. He replaces a communist.

Father Felix Kir, mayor of Dijon, as the oldest member of the French Parliament, had the duty of opening the first meeting of the newly elected National Assembly.

Father Kir spoke of France's obligation to pursue a fruitful path in a world threatened by materialism. He said that he has often considered a world in which the divine message would actually be applied and men would serve their neighbors even though their neighbors are not friendly toward them. This is the ideal toward which France must guide the world, he said.

Pope Urges Catholics To Politics Role

Vatican City — (RNS) — Pope John XXIII said Catholics should take an active part in politics and it is the "right and duty" of the Church to give them moral guidance in such activities.

The Pontiff spoke at an audience to delegates attending the ninth national meeting of the Union of Italian Catholic Lawyers.

HE CAUTIONED meanwhile that while differences of opinion may exist among Catholics in regard to merely political questions, there should be unanimity concerning matters of social and religious interest.

Pope John said Catholics engaged in working for identical spiritual or social purposes should always do so in a spirit of mutual understanding.

He said that if such efforts are to be successful it is obvious that all internal discord must be eliminated and a common united stand taken instead.

"At all times, for which the ecclesiastical hierarchy has the right and duty to call upon the faithful, in the interest of souls to defend the Church and Christian principles."

Brothers Flee Fire

Laval, Que. — (NC) — A nighttime fire on the fourth floor of the Christian Brothers' provincial house and seminary here forced 275 Brothers and seminarians out into subzero cold.

No one was reported injured in the fire, which brought firemen from four Montreal stations to the aid of local firemen. The blaze was believed to have started in a chapel on the top floor of the four-story building.

Father George McCall

Following is the text of the sermon given by Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph J. Sullivan at the funeral Mass of Father George T. McCall, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Waterloo. Father McCall died Wednesday, Dec. 10, 1958, and his funeral was Saturday, Dec. 13.

It is truly meet and just, right and availing unto salvation, that we should at all times and in all places give thanks to Thee, almighty and eternal God.

Requiem Preface

We have come together this morning to discharge one of life's bitterest but most common tasks — to bury a father — the father of the spiritual family of St. Mary's Parish.

For some of us, the ties of human family bound him also as brother, uncle, great uncle. For all of us, he was in many ways, at many times, a father as well as a Christ-like friend and neighbor, and we are honored and grateful that so many of his friends and neighbors are sharing our grief today.

The task of commentating his passing and doing some small part of justice to his memory is more than merely difficult. The risk of indelicacy on the part of a member of his human family who attempts it is, I trust, compensated for and tolerated by the need to seize this opportunity to acknowledge and express at last the gratitude in the hearts of both his families for all that he was, more than all that he did when he had a great struggle to accomplish or avoid it.

We are stricken by a sense of loss, the natural mother-like grief, but we dare not, we must not be so selfish as to linger upon that here. It would hurt neither God nor man, nor the proper human appreciation of things, nor the character of Father McCall to do so. There is too, too much for which to be grateful.

St. Paul looks at God's every [illegible] upon human [illegible] and [illegible] ment, is made of so much in the [illegible] that proportion to [illegible] (Heb. 5:1)

It is this particular case the hand of God, the best and [illegible] loves the soul of his children of [illegible] Father, [illegible] Who is His instrument for the care of these souls. He [illegible] counsel. He is shaping [illegible] He loves [illegible] and [illegible] service [illegible] and [illegible] his self to be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
