

Auxiliary Hears Panel At Meeting

The January meeting of the women's auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital was held Jan. 5 on the ninth floor of the Dunn Memorial Nurses' Residence, Rose De Socio, president, presided.

A panel discussion on hospital organization was arranged for by Mrs. Fred W. Barton, program chairman.

PANELISTS included Sister Margaret Adelaide, hospital administrator and executive vice president of the board of directors, who represented the board of directors. Sister explained the organization and functions of the governing board of a Catholic hospital.

Sister outlined the organization of the hospital, beginning with the articles of incorporation dated from 1908. Sister explained the membership of the board of directors, noting that it is made up of both lay members and Sisters of St. Joseph. The functions of the board were pointed out to the group.

Dr. Fred W. Barton, associate director of the hospital's department of radiology, the second speaker on the panel, represented the medical staff.

He pointed out that through his committee, the staff doctors present their problems to administration and to the hospital board. Dr. Barton told the group that members of the medical staff cooperate with groups in the community in presenting lectures when such requests are made.

SISTER JOAN Francis, assistant administrator of St. Joseph's Hospital, represented administration on the panel. Sister's topic was departmental organization of the hospital. She outlined the various departments in the hospital and pointed out that the heads of the respective departments are directly responsible to the Hospital Administrator.

Rose De Socio, represented the various departments in the hospital and pointed out that the heads of the respective departments are directly responsible to the Hospital Administrator. Sister outlined the two divisions of the department.

Sister outlined the faculty organization of the nursing school as well as the nursing service organization in the hospital.

Two Wills Help 10 Institutions

Two Catholic institutions benefited from the wills of two Rochester women, probated last week.

Mrs. Mary E. Nolan, 82, of 42 Alexander St., who died Dec. 10, bequeathed $300 each to St. Bernard's Seminary, the Society for the Propagation of the Faith and the Catholic Near East Welfare Association. She gave $200 each to Father Baker's Infant Home, Lackawanna, St. Francis of Assisi Church, Rochester; St. Joseph's Home for the Blind, Jersey City, N.J.; Maryknoll Sisters, Maryknoll, and Dominican Convent, London, England.

Mrs. Elizabeth P. Yawger, 267 Oxford St., who died Dec. 28, bequeathed $1,000 to the Academy of the Sacred Heart, 8-Prinze St. Besides the cash legacy, the Academy was left a "butter fly pin to put on the curtain in front of the Tabernacle." The convent of the Sacred Heart was willed flat silver. Mrs. Yawger also left four shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey stock to Blessed Sacrament Church.

Final blessing at the grave was imparted by Rev. Leo E. Lynch.

Brewery Starts Expansion Plan

Standard Rochester Brewing Co. Inc. has started a million dollar expansion program, according to Maurice L. Lewis, firm president. The program was started in order to keep up with the steadily increasing sales of the firm, according to Lewis. The expansion will include additional brewing capacity, a new bottle line, new storage tanks and the doubling of the tractor trailer fleet. Elmer Epple, company vice president said.

The expansion program will be financed by stockholders, sale of investment property and long-term financing from the Lincoln Rochester Trust Co.
