Mothers Club Told: Parents, Teachers Have Mutual Goal

Geneva—"All of us who work with children have a common stake in the world of tomorrow," Mrs. Edward R. Guony of West St. School faculty, told St. Stephen's Mothers Monday at the installation dinner in Bellport.

Mrs. Stephen Hastings was installed as president for 1959. OTHER OFFICERS installed were Mrs. Gabriel Gigliotti, vice-president; Mrs. Richard Grau, secretary, and Mrs. Anthony Visco, treasurer. Mrs. Joseph Helferman was installing officer.

"Parents and teachers whether they realize it or not stand side by side in helping to build the lives and thoughts of those who will participate in the shaping of our civilization in the years ahead," Mrs. Guony advised the mothers.

"MOTHERS ARE discovering that if their children are to be reared successfully, the influence of the school must be clearly recognized and understood. The effectiveness of this cooperative partnership with parents, especially in the matter of acquainting them with the needs of their school can help even more in finding out just what can be done about these needs," Mrs. Guony declared.

Mrs. Guony noted that through the years we have heard the importance of the three R's.

"They are very important," she said, "but tonight from a teacher's viewpoint I am going to divert a bit and talk about the three H's which I consider important too in the life of every youngster today... health, home and happiness."

THE SPEAKER also dwelt upon the influence of the home upon the children.

"Make your home a place where your child knows he is loved, wanted, safe and secure," she advised.
