DOINGS AT THE DALY'S

By Mary Tinley Daly

Suddenly, it's Lent! Coming early this year, the Holy Season seems to fit in perfectly with the spirit of the times.

Mary Daly

It's a serious America, this pre-spring of 1959. Politically, educationally, economically, sociologically, America is re-evaluating itself.

Each person, each family, makes individual decisions on this, up to a point. For some, it means Mass and the way of the cross daily; for others, attendance at a series of semi-weekly Lenten services; still others "give up" a pet indulgence; a great many Catholics do all of these things and more.

AT OUR HOUSE, Lent has its own particular exhilaration—a combination of physical, mental and spiritual practices built up over the years that seem not only to help us individually but as a family.

There is the penance of going to bed earlier (and that's a BIG penance for us) so that we can get up at least half-awake for early Mass.

Then the warm-up of the car, and when it won't start, the trek over the hills to church and the semitrot trip back. Then the small breakfast allowed the elders and the whopper—complete with steaming bowls of oatmeal for the younger non-fasters.

With the plain living comes an alert feeling during the day—with the slight hunger pangs that make us remember why we are doing these things.

For homemakers, Lenten dinners can be real budget savers. This may seem like a slightly cruel way of handling the situation, but it's realistic.

AND THEN, Wednesday and Friday, or whenever they have services in your parish, there is the family-attended participation in Lenten activities. It's "togetherness"—though I hate that word!

Coming home in the cold darkness, an hour or so spent in reading—survived from too-often indulged-in drives on TV.

Then the penance of "early to bed" and another REAL day of living—Lent!

Goodness knows, with the new

Fish Anyone?

By Mary Tinley Daly

Laws of fasting, no one need go hungry to bed nor drag through the day, half-starved.

This very sentence on the part of Holy Mother Church puts the obligation of penance where it belongs—on us.

Each person, each family, makes individual decisions on this, up to a point.

Stephen McNally On Family Theater

Hollywood, Calif.—(NC)—Stephen McNally will star in a drama entitled "Strangers," to be presented on the Family Theater radio program on Feb. 13.

The story, which deals with a lesson in the application of charity, will be heard on WMBE in Auburn at 7:35 p.m. Ruth Hussey will be the program hostess.

Family Theater is directed by Father Patrick Payton, C.S.C., founder of the Family Rosary Crusade.

Teenagers Veto Car Ownership

Providence—(NC)—High school students should not own their own automobiles, according to a code drawn up at the first Providence diocesan youth congress.

Other rules drawn up at the congress include the following: —Dress: for girls, not too low, not too tight, not too revealing, not too short, but "tight enough to show the wearer is a woman and loose enough to show she is a lady."

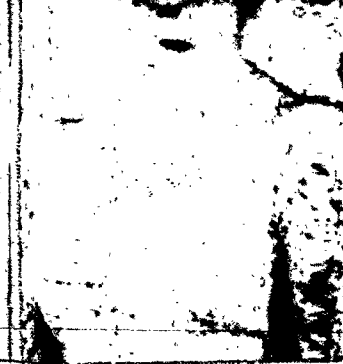

—Dating: dating not to start until sophomore year in high school; group and community activities for those in the junior high schools.

—Drinking: No alcoholic drinks for any teenagers.

—Work: encouraged during the summer holidays and also after school and on weekends if it does not interfere with studies.

Cardinal McIntyre

Movies Can Boost Moral Beliefs

Hollywood, Calif.—(NC)—In their own way motion pictures can reaffirm the existence of God and strengthen moral beliefs, His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre told the film industry's annual Communion breakfast here in the Palladium.

This ideal was exemplified by the work of the late Cecil B. DeMille, the Archbishop of Los Angeles said.

Mr. DeMille's genius, the Cardinal continued, was the ability to combine entertainment with education, documentation, instruction and apologetics.

THE FACT of God's existence must especially be stressed in this age, he added, "for now there are those who do not accept; others who accept casually or without conviction."

Father Hugh Noonan, O.F.M., director of the Hour of St. Francis, in his sermon at Blessed Sacrament Church told movie people they had a two-fold responsibility:

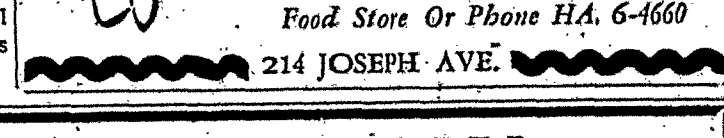

1—"To be true to things as they are, but as a person of faith to realize also that things are as God made them. In this," he said, "there is room to portray life in all its colors,
