Catholic Theatre Readies 'Othello'

The local performances will be April 17, 18, 19 in Nazareth College Auditorium.

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast are Frank Philippone as Roderigo, Gene Eckert as Brabantino, Don O'Neil as Cassio, Frank Reisenberger as the Duke of Venice, Mary O'Neil as Bianca, Jim Mills as Gratiano, Robert Bride as Iodovico, Frank Buttaccio, Bob Wright, Gerard Combs and Dick Mancini will complete the cast as Soldiers.

Richard Mancini takes a dual role, that of set designer and as a soldier cast member. Carl Zolo will be stage manager and Callista Esterguard, in charge of the costume department.

Tickets are now available by writing Catholic Theatre of Rochester, 940 Hudson Ave. Adult admission is $1.50 and student tickets are $1.

'A Real Beauty'

By RAY SMITH

"SLEEPING BEAUTY" at the Monroe Theater is another big Disney jewel that takes its place with his other great fairy-tales as "Snow White," "Fantasia," "Cinderella," etc.

The story is that of the beautiful Princess Aurora who is placed under a curse at her christening by a vengeful uninvited witch, so that at sixteen, she and her court will fall into a deathlike sleep until she is awakened by the kiss of her true love. (Just between us chickens, remember way back in 1937 when he gave us "Snow White." Disney's style was exactly the same.)

The Prince, already in search of his Princess, armed by the good fairies with the Shield of Virtue and the Sword of Truth, confronts all his dangers manfully, slays the witch's dragons, and wakes the Sleeping Beauty.

A few facts that may be of interest. This 75 minute tale for the WHOLE FAMILY cost Mr. Disney $6,000,000 and contains some 1,000,000 separate paintings. (No, I didn't count them.) The Princess was modeled, or her figure and personality were suggested, by a Miss Helene Stanley. Vocally, the Princess is Mary Costa, a TV star of operatic and night-club experience. Aurora is intended to look and sound 16. The movie has six sound channels and is 70mm in width perfected by the Technicolor Technirama people.

Children will love this movie and adults too. Don't miss it.

Goose pimples are being passed out at the Paramount with a double bill of horror, "SCREAMING SKULL" and "TERROR FROM THE YEAR 5,000." These chiller-dillers are for ADULTS AND ADOLESCENTS who aren't troubled with nightmares.

As usual in this type of entertainment (if we can call it such), the stories are a little far-fetched but we expect this when we pay our money at the boxoffice.

Don't be disappointed if you don't hear any mention of these two movies when OSCAR invades our living-rooms via TV next Monday night for the Academy Awards.

"SOME LIKE IT HOT" at the Loew's Theater brings Marilyn Monroe back to the screen after an absence of three years. To tell the truth, I really didn't miss her.

Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon add their parts to the gross suggestiveness of this film in costuming, dialogue, and situations making it OBJECTIONABLE FOR ALL.

For WHOLESOME FAMILY entertainment the Palace Theater gives you another chance to see "THE SHAGGY DOG" for the crowds demand a second week. Congratulations, Mr. Disney.

ELMIRA! You'll see John Wayne in a top western at the Elmira Theater when you see "RIO BRAVO."

ATTENTION — ALL KIDS AND TEENAGERS OF MONROE COUNTY. BE SURE TO SEE THIS COLUMN NEXT WEEK TO LEARN HOW TO WIN $25.00 AND PASSES TO THE MOVIES.

The Top Tunes

By JOSEPH McLELLAN

POPULAR

I Never Felt Like This Before (Jack Scott, Carlton) The singing is better than the song.

The Chick (Lee & Paul, Columbia) This spoof on the rock-sters is good for a few spins, but I'd hate to live with it.

Come Softly To Me (The Fleetwoods, Dolphin) Singing and arrangement are unusually beautiful. A few lines in the lyrics are unfortunately worded.

If I Didn't Care (Connie Francis, MGM) Good vocal, with a nostalgic tribute to the old Ink Spots version.

Little Space Girl (Jesse Lee Turner) Along with everything else, this cutie has the voice of a chipmunk.

Ambrose, Part 5 (Linda Laurie, Glory) This is the wierdest yet in a time full of wierdies. The flip side of the record is sensuous, not so much for what she says as the way she says it.

It's Late (Ricky Nelson, Imperial) Tough situation.

Dancing In The Streets (Ames Brothers) The song is ordinary, but the singing is fine.

POPULAR LPs

Frank Sinatra: Come Dance With Me; with Billy May and his orchestra (Capitol W 1069).

The Sinatra voice, as usual, gives full satisfaction on practically every note. With a swinging background from Billy May, he delivers twelve tunes that are always fine for dancing and usually fine for listening. At his best, in such numbers as "Something's Got to Give," "Dancing in the Dark," and "Saturday Night," Frank is unsurpassed by any vocalist in the business. I found him specially impressive in parts of "The Song is You" — the best item on the record, except for a few false notes.

Sinatra, together with "King" Cole, Como and a few others, is one of the rare popular male singers who can be counted on for an honest performance in every song — without the fads and gimmicks that currently plague the industry. A real pro in a time of spectacular amateurs.

In Brief: Good for your ears or for your toes.

Lester Lanin and his trio: Cocktail Dancing (Epic LN 3531).

There are fifty-odd songs in this collection of dance medleys, with an average time-ration of about three-quarters of a minute each. Most of them (including the Strauss and Tchaikovsky selections) are tried and true popular favorites.

If there are one or two that you don't happen to like, they are gone before they can really bother you — but unless your tastes are off-beat you are sure to enjoy almost all of them. The piano-and-rhythm combination provides a perfect background for dancing.

The instrumental resources are a bit thin for just listening all the way through, but Lanin compensates with some clever keyboard work and by variety and contrast in material and styles. In one medley, for instance, he shifts from "Shine On, Harvest Moon" to Tchaikovsky's Love Theme from "Romeo and Juliet" and then slams into a jazz climax with "Bill Bailey."

Other highlights include Latin American treatments of "Come Back to Sorrento" and "Oh Marie." The variety extends from a selection of waltzes to a "Cielito Lindo Cha Cha."

In Brief: An excellent dance record for the party-giver.

Edmundo Ros and his orchestra: Hollywood Cha Cha Cha (London, stereo PS 152).

The Edmundo Ros orchestra speaks popular music with an authentic Latin American accent. In this collection, the focus is on themes of hit movies: such songs as the Moulin Rouge Theme, Love is a Many Splendored Thing, Three Coins in the Fountain, Tammy and True Love. The arrangements pepper these tunes with the spice of a tropical beat, without losing any of their original musical value.

One thing the records does is to demonstrate how much variety a good orchestra can deliver in a single idiom. Each song is individually styled, and the mood ranges from the most mellow cantabile to the most crisp staccato.

London's stereo sound is beautifully distributed for full enjoyment.

In Brief: This is exceptionally good for a popular record. Selection, performance and recording are all first class.
