23 Nurses Receive Caps In Hornell Ceremonies

Hornell — The "wonderful gift of womanhood" can be used magnificently for eternal merit in the chosen vocation of nursing, the Very Rev. Gerald J. Whelan, C.S.S.R., told 23 student nurses of St. James Mercy School of Nursing, Sunday.

Father Whelan, superior of the parish of St. Joseph's Church in Rochester, was principal speaker at traditional capping exercises at 3 p.m. in St. Ignatius Loyola Church.

His talk was prefaced by solemn ceremonies during which each of the 23 student nurses received her hospital cap, signifying successful completion of a six-month probationary period.

The Rev. William Hickey, chaplain of St. James Mercy Hospital, welcomed those present and introduced each member of the Class of 1961, commending the group for successfully achieving the first big step towards the goal of professional nursing.

Each class member knelt on a prie-dieu in the sanctuary to receive her stretched white cap. Sister Mary Valerian, director of the school of nursing, assisted by Sister Mary Anne of the school faculty.

Sister Mary Elizabeth Anne of the faculty presented each student with a miniature lamp which she lighted from a large Florence Nightingale lamp. Later, led by Sister M. Elizabeth Anne, the students recited the historic Nightingale pledge.

ADVISING THE students to follow Christ as their ideal and Ignatius Loyola Church, was assisting priest.

During Benediction, the students recited the Nurses' Prayer that they might "see Christ in each of His sick."

In the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence W. Cannon, V.P., dean of Steuben County, the Rev. William Spolney and the Rev. David Blais of Rochester, the Rev. Herbert Stummer of Cohocton and the Rev. John Murphy, chaplain at Craig Colony, Sonoma.

MEMBERS OF the Class of 1961 are Jean Daley, Andover; Eleanor Curry and Barbara Winch, Attica; Joanne Mitchell, Auburn; Jean Dillon, Brooklyn; Jean Schneider and Janet Scutthuis, Cohocton; Barbara Krayer, Danville; DeAnn Anastasia, Olean; Joan Bessney, Painted Post; Ann Delaire, Rita Grebe, Kathleen Lechner and Carol Klingler, Rochester; Audrey Geo, San Francisco; Rebecca Walling, Savoy; Judith Clark, Wayland; and Mary Glancy, Jeanette Daniels, Phyllis Generali, Martha Glyn, Sally Harris and Nancy O'Donnell, all of Hornell.
