Rochester's History Museum Exhibit... Rochester as a boom town 125 years ago is reflected in an exhibit at Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences in celebration of this year's History across New York State... All phases of Rochester life in the area of Trades and Occupations are shown in tools, costumes, paintings, documents, waybills, personalia and miniature dioramas. The exhibit was created by Mrs. Gladys Reid Holton, the Museum's culture historian, and will remain on view through the summer months.

Eastman Orchestra Weekly Concerts... Five Thursday evening concerts at 8:15 p.m. by the Eastman Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Frederick Pennell of the Eastman School of Music faculty, will again highlight Rochester's summer music season. All concerts will be in Kilbourn Hall, Eastman School, with the exception of the one on July 9, which will be in Strong Auditorium, University of Rochester River Campus.

St. Anthony of Padua... Among Women... Pope's Confessor 80 Years Old... Within the week of the feast of the spoken word. More than all of St. Anthony of Padua, it is else in their example, their poverty must be recaptured by us, if we would duplicate their works. 'WE SPEAK much of the Church and the social problems of the Church and the economic problems of the hour. However, about St. Anthony went about Italy preaching the word of God, such great crowds flock to hear him that his voice could scarcely reach the outer fringes of the surrounding throngs. Unbelievers, moved by his love for Christ and for men, remained to hear him gladly and returned to seek the sacraments. Soldiers, forgetful for the time of their arms, prayed with him for peace. 'ST. ANTHONY met the social problem in the place where it is most acute, among the poor themselves. He attempted to solve it not by codes or social theories but by deed and especially by the deed which Christianity calls the corporal and spiritual works of mercy. 'ST. ANTHONY preached and worked not on the assumption that the Gospel was a political or a social manifesto, but on the assumption that if the Gospel were preached purely and followed faithfully, social and political problems would be anticipated and allayed. Let not man tell that such preaching is out of date or would be ineffective in our age. The parallel between the age of St. Anthony and the time in which we live is too close for us to suppose that the Gospel which he converted the heathen of his times would not prove equally powerful in our generation.'
