Every sin demands some kind of reparation, because it disturbs the balance of justice. A boy who is well brought up will go to his piggy bank to pay a neighbor for a window he broke while playing ball. The modern man does not take his sins very seriously. But God takes them seriously—as the Cross proves. Hence the first sermons of Our Lord, of St. Peter, of St. John the Baptist and of St. Paul were all on the subject "Do Penance."

There are various ways of making up for the evil in our lives by prayer, fasting and alms. "Charity covers a multital
