Watching The Screen

'Broken Compass'

By RAY SMITH

Ingredients: three parts suspense; one cup of intrigue; a dash of comedy and humor; a pinch of romance. Put in a hot oven for 136 minutes and out comes the master at his masterful best — Alfred Hitchcock's "NORTH BY NORTHWEST" at the Loew's Theater for ADULTS ONLY.

"Why do I call the picture 'North by Northwest'? Because there is no such point on the compass. So this fellow doesn't know where he is going," said the master of suspense movies, chuckling at his own little joke.

A Madison Ave man, an innocent bystander, who mistaken for an American spy, becomes dangerously involved with a ring of foreign agents. Cary Grant has the starring role. Cary plays a man thrown into an international plot from which there seems to be no escape. Eva Marie Saint, thoroughly glamorous, is the mystery woman while James Mason assumes the role of the mastermind of the ring that terrorizes Grant.

FROM NEW York, the camera moves by train to Chicago, thence to the plains of the midwest and Rushmore Park in South Dakota. Hitchcock has captured the mad rush-hours of Manhattan; the thoughtless manners of millions of people in a hurry to get wherever they are going. He makes full use of the streets of New York, the U.N. building, Grand Central Station, etc.

Photographing inside Grand Central was the toughest job for the cameramen. This mammoth structure had to be flooded with tens of thousands of lights to get the proper results. Light, sound, and camera cables criss-crossed the marble floors of the terminal at the same time thousands of commuters were scrambling to and from trains. That's Hitchcock for you.

This first Metro release in VistaVision has beautiful Technicolor photography, whether in the hot yellows of the prairie or the soft greens of the South Dakota forests. The musical score is a tingling one, particularly in the Mount Rushmore sequences, but light where mood requires.

Hitchcock Adult fans—you'll like this romantic spy meller.

BLUE DENIM comes to the Paramount Theatre this week for ADULTS ONLY.

The cry of this film seems to be one for better sex education for youngsters by their parents and for closer communication between parents and their offspring. The yarn is not one about juvenile delinquents, but rather, has to do with some good kids in a small town.

With pregnancy and abortion as the main theme it is a picture that tells a lesson but do we need such truth on the screen? 20th Century Fox is really exploiting this drama about today's youngsters (very few, we hope.) I think the dollar sign is in their minds more than to have the public learn a moral lesson, if there is one in the film.

THE IRISH are tying hand grenades to the tail of the British Lion again in the Palace Theater's "SHAKE HANDS WITH THE DEVIL" for ADULTS and ADOLESCENTS. In passing, this viewer might suggest that they could have chosen a better title for this 110 minute movie shot entirely in Ireland.

Jimmie Cagney has top billing and is possibly the only U.S. born film star who could appear plausibly as a native of Dublin. It's good to see him on film again. He now is Sean Lenihan, a professor of the Royal College of Surgeons and, secretly, the ferocious tactical genius of the hidden Irish Republican Army.

Our tale transpires in 1921, the time of the Black-and-Tans, the savage replacements for the regular British soldiery who cannot—stomach the dire and dirty duty. While Lenihan's chief of the IRA (Michael Redgrave) is negotiating peace and dominion status, the physician-fighter, alternately healer and killer, is for carrying on the war until the last Englishman is dead. He coolly erases all possible informers, including the loveliest colleens.

When the patriotic Lady Fitzhugh (the wonderful Dame Sybil Thorndike) is trapped by the Tans, assisting a wounded rebel, Lenihan takes as hostage a highborn British beauty (Dana Wynter) who is wounded in a fairly hair-raising skirmish. If Lady Fitzhugh dies, Lenihan is certain to kill the fair hostage.

So now we have romance. Lenihan's lieutenant, Kerry O'Shea (Don Murray), young American of Irish antecedents, loves the prisoner. He doesn't want Lenihan to harm a hair of her head. So, you might expect, there is a little (did I say "a little"?) internal trouble.

Guerilla fighting and terrific battles make this Irish freedom-fight film a very good evening's entertainment.

ELMIRA—Frankie is in town and does himself proud in the warm and humorous "A HOLE IN THE HEAD" at the Elmira Theater for ADULTS AND ADOLESCENTS. You will enjoy this a lot more than to see "Anatomy of a Murder" which moved over to the Colonial Theater.

HORNELL — UGH, you too. "Anatomy of a Murder" is at the Majestic Theater for no one. Wait until next week. They're going to have a good picture then.

("The clinical analysis, with which the subject matter of this film (rape) is so explicitly and frankly detailed, is judged to exceed the bounds of moral acceptability and propriety in a mass medium of entertainment," the legion said.

The agency, which issues ratings on the moral tone of films, said a separate classification is given certain films, "which while not morally offensive in themselves, require some analysis and explanation as a protection to the uninformed against wrong interpretations and false conclusions.")

Rochester's Fine Arts Theatre has on more than one occasion during the past year shown movies rated as Class C (Condemned) by the Legion of Decency. Catholics are reminded of the Legion pledge by which they promise to stay away from theatres showing condemned films as a matter of policy.

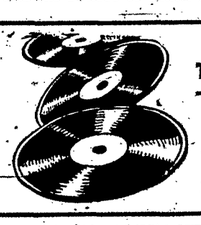
'Real Cool'

Cuilco, Guatemala — (RNS) — The expression on the face of young Maria Mak, a Mayan Indian living near the Maryknoll mission of Cuilco, high in the Cuchamatanes Mountains of northwestern Guatemala, is silent testimony that a cool drink of water is still a luxury in some parts of the world. Maria is enjoying her first drink from a new pipe recently installed by the mission. Previously, the Indians drank and washed from a common gully that ran through the town and was the source of much sickness and disease.



Turntable Talk . . .

Semi Classical

By JOSEPH McLELLAN

MUSIC FOR FRUSTRATED CONDUCTORS: Sabre Dance; Espana Rapsodie; Liebesfreud; Mexican Hat Dance; Fantasia on "Greensleeves"; excerpts from Victory at Sea, Die Fledermaus, Carmen, Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 4. Conducted by Arthur Fiedler, Morton Gould, Robert Russell Bennett and you. Baton included, with booklet on conducting by Deems Taylor (Victor stereo and monaural 2325).

If you are given to exuberant self-expression, it might be well to clear all small, breakable objects out of the way before you play this one. Outside of that, Victor has taken care of all your needs, including a baton, a booklet of elementary instructions on the art of conducting—well, keeping time, anyway — and a fine set of orchestras, assistant conductors and musical selections to bring out the Toscanini in you.

A full-length mirror helps, but in all fairness you couldn't ask the company to supply that. Stereophonic sound is better for this record, not only because of its added dimensions but because it give you a chance to nod knowingly in the right direction to bring in, for instance, the second violins on cue. A delightful, if at times exhausting production.

JOHANN STRAUSS . . . for two pianos: Tales from the Vienna Woods, waltz; Annen Polka; Tik-Tak Polka; Voices of Spring Waltz; Wine, Women and Song Waltz; Please Polka; Tritsch Tratsch Polka; Blue Danube Waltz. Rawicz and Landauer, pianists (London stereo PS-115).

A very attractive performance, with precise coordination, aptness and style, and a fine, appropriate variety of rhythmic and dynamic colorings. If you are looking for a good piano collection, not too light for substantial value and not too heavy for relaxed enjoyment, try this one.

On the other hand, if you are looking for the ultimate in Strauss performance, London already has several of the best records on the market, with the Vienna Philharmonic under various batons (Boskovsky, Knappertsbusch and Krips). For my money, no two pianos—no matter how dazzling the performance — can compete with that magnificent orchestra.

MUSIC OF THE SPANISH MASTERS; FALLA: Three Cornered Hat, ballet suites 1 and 2; Ritual Fire Dance from El Amor Brujo. GRANADOS: Andaluza; ALBENIZ: Navarrara; El Corpus en Sevilla (Capitol G 7176).

Color is the chief ingredient in this music; particularly in the Falla items and hardly less so in the other numbers, orchestrated from piano compositions. The distinctive Spanish tone is one of the most attractive in the wide, many-hued realm of musical nationalism, and it is given a highly-spiced presentation in this recording—one of Rodzinski's last before his death.

A keen sense of the bright Andalusian rhythms and a fine attention to small details are among the most attractive features of the performance, as well as sharp instrumental coloring. For the Falla selections, some listeners may prefer the work of the late Ataulfo Argenta; but Rodzinski should be more than satisfactory for almost anyone's taste.
