

Dale Again Heads CYO Campaign

Annual membership campaign of the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) will again be headed by John A. Dale, executive director of the Rochester Rehabilitation Commission, according to CYO Director Rev. Eugene H. McFarland.

Dale, who was general chairman of last year's successful drive, will name leaders for the special committee and the men's and women's divisions next week.

THE SPECIAL committee will hold its first meeting on Sept. 15 and the campaign proper will open October 1 and close October 15.

"The need for planned and supervised recreational activity for our youth is greater than ever," says Father McFarland, "and it is heartening when a man with so many civic duties already pressing upon him agrees to head our membership campaign for the second time."

"With a large increase in the number of children in the area it will be necessary to expand both facilities and personnel at the CYO. Sponsored memberships by generous friends are needed to enable us to carry on an expanded program for the next year."

Program director Howard F. Meath is now arranging for additional activities for both boys and girls for the autumn, winter and spring seasons.

Learning is his responsibility...

Properly fitted shoes are the responsibility of your Little Yankee store

It takes special knowledge to fit young growing feet... like knowing how much growth to allow for in your child's new shoes. (3% of the foot's growth is from heel to ball and only 1/4 in the toe.) Knowing that each of your child's feet should be measured separately because no two feet are alike... knowing which last fits which foot best! Knowing how to fill a doctor's prescription for shoes! The fitters in our store are proud of their responsibility... the expert fitting care of our Little Yankee customers!

PROPOSED WATERLOO SCHOOL ADDITION - Architect's rendering shows the proposed addition to St. Mary's School, Waterloo, to be connected by corridor with the present 50-year-old four-classroom school (at left). St. Mary's Church is in background. The new unit will include four classrooms, two meeting rooms, principal's office, nurse's room and an "all-purpose" auditorium-gymnasium-cafeteria seating 340 persons. Pledges toward the project will be sought next week. Minimum goal is $135,000.

Waterloo Parishioners Launch Building Drive

Waterloo - More than 200 men of St. Mary's Church will launch a parishwide canvass next week for fund pledges toward the proposed expansion of St. Mary's school building and construction of an auditorium-gymnasium-cafeteria.

The Rev. James E. O'Connell, pastor, said advanced gifts will be solicited Wednesday night, Sept. 9, and that the general solicitation of parishioners is slated Sunday afternoon, Sept. 13.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward K. Ball, V.F., pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Geneva, will be principal speaker at the advanced gifts committee kickoff dinner at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 8, in the Franklin Hotel.

Committeemen will attend a pep rally at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 10, in the VFW Hall. Among speakers will be Assemblyman Francis J. Souhan of Seneca Falls.

PARISHIONERS WILL pray for the success of the appeal at outdoor shrine devotions at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 11. Devotions will include a procession of school children, recitation of the Rosary, hymns and Benediction.

Auxiliary Bishop Lawrence B. Casey will speak at the general committee kickoff dinner at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12, in the American Legion Home.

Increasing school applications, plus the fact that parishioners have no meeting room, necessitated the expansion, Father O'Connell pointed out. Parishioners must conduct meetings in classrooms and other functions in community halls.

Plans call for erection of a new building unit, to be connected by corridor to the west end of the present four-classroom school. Completion is planned by September, 1960.

Heading the appeal's advanced gifts committee are G. Paul Duffy, Dr. John R. French and Dr. Charles M. Smith. Group leaders are James Clare, Leland Henry, Steve Hudick, Jack McCarthy, John Mull, Maurice Parrow, Stephen Sipos and George Trainor.

ADVISORY COMMITTEEMEN are headed by Louis McKeivitt, Bernard Matthews and Jerome Wolff. Members include Weldon Cook, Marion DeCicca, William Duprey, Maynard Gochenauer, Thomas Klemm, Leo Krenzer, Charles Langhear Sr., Zoltique LeBrun, Edward McNally and Roy Schaumlöffel.

Walter J. Brainerd is general committee chairman, with Joseph French and Francis McNaney as vice chairmen.

Aquinas 'Irish'

Begin Drilling

One hundred and seventy-five boys reported for their medical examination last Tuesday morning at the Aquinas gymnasium. Daily workouts have been scheduled for this week for the varsity and Jayvee football teams. Double sessions are being held until Tuesday, Sept. 8.

JOE REPEKO and his coaching staff have been concentrating on fundamentals including stances, blocking and tackling. As a result of the recent hot spell, linemen are being drilled from 6 until 7:30 each evening.

All freshmen prospects will report on Tuesday, September 8 after an early dismissal. It is expected that 200 will report to Father John Ware, C.S.B. The coaching staff will pick 50 boys for a freshman team while the remainder of the boys will be divided among five teams. Each of these five teams will play twice a week.

This program is supervised by Father Edwin Kline C.S.B. By the end of September it is expected that 200 will be dressed in full uniform and play regular schedule. Thirteen football coaches will be working with the boys each day.

Sociology Students Classroom, A Laboratory

Chicago - (RNS) - Some 200 Roman Catholic sociologists, gathered here from across the country, were urged to look upon their student communities at high schools, colleges and universities as "laboratories" in their field.

Sister Mary Edward, president of the American Catholic Sociological Society, told delegates to its 21st annual meeting that more scientific studies should be made of changing thought and behavior patterns in educational centers "so that Catholic schools might be more effective in developing mature Catholic social leaders."

The nun is dean of students at the College of St. Catherine, St. Paul, Minn., a school for women.

Members of the society teach sociology at Catholic colleges, universities and high schools, or are active in Catholic social action.

Specific areas which Catholic sociologists should study, Sister Mary Edward said, are the discrepancies between Catholic ideals and actual behavior of Catholics, the effect of campus social pressures on student values and actions, elements of student culture which either help or hinder educational objectives, and conflicts between society's cultural patterns and those within the educational community.

She urged the society to form a committee for co-operative research along these lines.

Studies have shown, the nun said, that the effect of one student's views and values upon another is far greater in residential colleges than in non-resident student groups. The young person commuting to college continues to find the values held by his family to be the greatest social pressure in his life, she added.

In a session on intergroup relations, the Rev. Augustine E. Slaley, professor of sociology, St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa., observed that Brazilian "racial democracy stands out as one of the most admirable in modern human society."

However, he said it has its limitations, explaining that Brazilians as a nation firmly support the idea of interracial marriages, but are slow to approve on involving a member of their own family. Prejudice against interracial marriage is "non-existent" at lower socio-economic levels, he said, but at higher social levels both whites and mulattoes observe a color line when choosing marriage partners.

The number of happy interracial marriages in Brazil is high enough to disprove the theory of some sociologists that such unions are "contrary to nature," he said, and make Brazil "both a center of world interest and a potential bridge between the radical segregationists and un-com promising integrationists."

The Rev. Thomas Duggan, S.J., of St. Louis University, suggested that Catholic educators set up college curricula especially designed for students wishing to enter the labor movement as a career.

Although more than a third of the nation's labor leaders since 1935 have been men with some college background, he pointed out, few labor courses have been organized at college or university levels during the past 20 years.

Father Duggan observed that not only are contemporary labor leaders better educated than their predecessors of the early 1900's, but they are better educated generally than the average adult.
