Aquinas Awards Made

The diocesan superintendent of schools declared that success in scholastic endeavors is not the result of mere chance or accident but is due to serious application and hard work.

SPEAKING AT the annual Scholastic Awards assembly at Aquinas Institute, Father William Roche praised the achievements of the many students who had earned academic awards. The superintendent strongly urged his youthful audience to set their aims high, to strive diligently with the help of God's grace, to achieve to the best of their ability.

Rev. E. P. Magee, C.S.B., principal of Aquinas Institute, extended the hospitality of the staff and student body to Father Roche in his first official visit of the Basilian Fathers' school.

Rev. L. G. Hart, C.S.B., vice principal, presented the award-winning students to Father Roche who formally admitted them to the ranks of the St. Thomas Club, highest honor distinction in the school.

STUDENTS who earned an average of 90% in all quarterly examinations and who received gold lapel pins were:

John Altinas, Anthony Barbato, William Brown, Daniel Flechtner, Nicholas Gemance, Joseph Greiner, Thomas Hooley, Philip Hoyt, Lawrence Jost, Augustine Juodikis, James Koob, Peter Krickmire, Robert LaPlaca, Robert Patris, John Riley, Leon Sawyko, and Thomas Warren.

Letters of commendation awarded for superior performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test were presented to Michael Kasper, William Rybak, David Graham, Roger Wolf and Nell McCarthy.
