

Plans Announced For New School

Seneca Falls — Complete plans for the new St. Patrick's Parochial School were announced by Rev. John P. O'Beirne, pastor. The cost of the building project is in excess of $300,000 with the Building Fund Campaign goal of $125,000.

More than 40 men of the parish will be working on the campaign. Advance Gift Solicitation will be on Sunday, May 15, and General Solicitation on Sunday, May 22.

Details of the building construction are as follows: the proposed new school for St. Patrick's Church is to be located east of the existing school on Bayard Street, and between the auditorium and the sidewalk.

THE SPECIAL BUILDING will be approached from Bayard Street. As a visitor approaches the building, he will particularly note the simple construction which consolidates and connects the existing auditorium and school structures.

The building is to be of modular construction with brick piers approximately fourteen feet apart for the main classroom wing, which will contain six classrooms, each approximately 900 square feet.

The exterior walls of the building will consist of ordinary brick, combined with modular window assemblies, two stories high with brick spandrels. Entrance doors will be located at each end of the classroom wing, so that the students may easily enter and exit from the building at the bottom of each stair.

Entrance doors and as-semblies will also be aluminum for easy operation and maintenance.

THE CONSTRUCTION of the building will be economical and durable. Partitions will be exposed concrete block, except where the exterior walls run into the entrance at the ends of the building, which will be brick. Corridors will be exposed painted concrete block, which may later have ceramic tile to these surfaces for easier maintenance.

Corridor lockers will be provided for the classrooms on the second floor, and the classrooms in the first floor will be equipped with wardrobes in the classroom space. Ceilings will be acoustic tile.

Floor throughout the building will be durable and easily maintained. Entrance foyers where the children will take off their rubbers and outdoor clothes will be finished with a hard quarry tile, and the stairways will be finished with precast terrazzo treads. Classrooms will have asphalt tile floors.

EACH CLASSROOM will be provided with a unit ventilation system which will provide both the heat and the ventilation for each room independently. The exhaust air will go through grilles in the doors into the corridor space, and circulate to gravity ventilators.

The electric system will consist of fluorescent lights with excellent visual conditions for all students for sight saving.

Youth Group Urges Pagan Adoptions

Pagan adoptions will be the project for May in the Holy Childhood Association according to the Rev. George S. Wood, diocesan director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

"The project is scheduled for May," Father Wood said, "in order to combat the challenge of the Communists."

The Association's children contributed $49,524.33 from this diocese to put the local group in its place in the nation. Sisters and children were commended for the results by the national and diocesan directors.

Very Rev. Augustus O. Reitan, national director in a letter to Bishop Kearney expressed gratitude to the Bishop for his cooperation with the Holy Childhood Association.

"YOUR LOVE for the missions and children everywhere," Father Reitan wrote to the Bishop, "is no better reflected than in the Diocese of Rochester under the most capable leadership of Father Wood."

"The continued zeal you have shown, along with the quiet labors of the teachers and children under your care, is an example of progress that, God willing, will be followed in many more areas this year."
