Cardinal Asks Aid For Flood Victims

Warsaw — (RNS) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, appealed to all Catholic faithful to help in every possible way victims of the recent disastrous floods in Poland.

In a letter published in Tygodnik Powszechny, Catholic paper in Cracow, the cardinal said, "I grieve over little children terrified by their experiences in the floods. I grieve over their mothers, helpless in the face of ruined homes. I grieve over the many families deprived of everything. I grieve over farm workers and farmers who have lost all their crops."

Asking, "Who will wipe away their tears?" Cardinal Wyszynski said, "We can help because we are the children of the same nation, of the same holy Church. We urge you all to show compassion and to help those who have suffered."

The Primate urged specifically that in addition to sheltering the homeless, Catholic benefactors help to repair damaged homesteads, and to gather in whatever crops could be saved in the fields.

Diocesan Sodalists Attend Fordham Meet

SUMMER SCHOOL OF CATHOLIC ACTION at Fordham University, New York City, drew priests, Sisters and youngsters from Rochester Diocese parishes and high schools. Parishes represented included Holy Apostles, Blessed Sacrament, St. Andrew, St. Thomas, St. Stanislaus and St. Michael, Rochester; Good Shepherd, Henrietta and SS. Peter and Paul, Elmira. Students from Nazareth Academy and St. Agnes High School also attended.

Brother Vocations 'Booming'

Rome—The religious Brother vocation is again attracting large numbers of young men, according to a statistical survey published here today by the Divine Word Missionaries.

Prior to the last war and immediately thereafter religious orders throughout the world reported a lessening of interest on the part of young men for the religious Brother vocation, but the present survey would seem to indicate that the vocation is again attracting as many if not more applicants than ever before.

Brothers are non-ordained members of religious communities of men who followed a life and perform the work of their particular communities for their own sanctification and the salvation of others.

The survey published here showed the growth of the Divine Word Missionary Brothers over the last 12 years and covered all 34 countries from which the order draws its vocations.

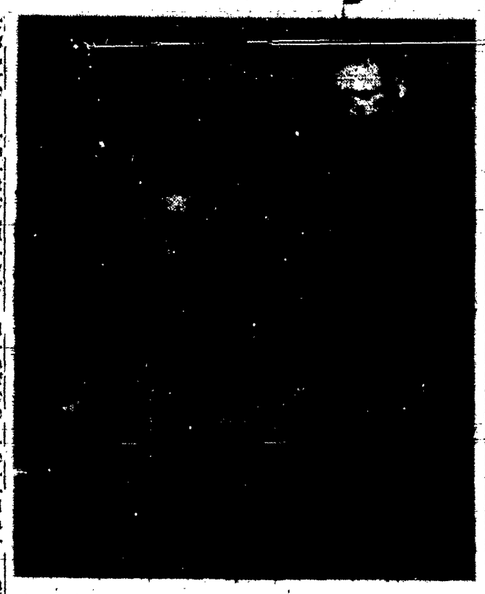
Although there was only a 6.5 per cent growth of professed religious Brothers from 1947 to 1959, the novices grew 182 per cent and those in preliminary training and called "candidates" increased 735 per cent.

CANDIDATES INCREASED from 71 to 593 in the past 12 years.

Indonesia with 128 candidates and 22 per cent of the total led all other countries.

Indonesia was followed by the United States with 125 candidates, West Germany with 72, Spain with 65, and Brazil with 52. Candidates from these five countries represented 75 per cent of the total.

Asked for an explanation of the change in trend, a spokesman for the Divine Word Missionary Brothers at their international headquarters here said, "One reason was certainly the intense recruiting we did during the past few years."



BROTHER ANTHONY HOGAN, S.V.D., of Oswego, N. Y., (seated) is an expert bookkeeper and Accountant at the Divine Word Seminary, Conesus. Many office tasks occupy his time and talent, since the Brother Candidates' School is also located at Conesus, where the boys receive their preparation to become Divine Word Missionary Brothers. Brother Anthony also visits the Pastors in New York State to check their needs for O-Neh-Da Altar wine also made and bottled by the Brothers. He is shown above with the Rev Francis Mahon, S.V.D.

"We went out and told young men what a religious Brother's vocation was all about, showed them that it was something worth aiming at, and then the applications poured in."

Prelate Denies Schools Proselytize Youngsters

Jerusalem — (RNS) — Bishop Pier Giorgio Chiappero, O.F.M., Latin Rite Partiarchal Vicar in Galilee, described as "absolutely baseless" charges in some quarters that Catholic schools in Israel were attempting to proselytize Non-Catholic students.

He made the denial before members of the Israel parliament's Committee on Interior Affairs who called upon him and other religious dignitaries in Nazareth to study conditions in the various religious communities there.

"No proselytizing among Non-Catholic children is tolerated in our religious schools and Jewish pupils studying there are dispensed from religious instruction," Bishop Chiappero said.

He added that "the Church is ready to go before any government investigation to prove that allegations of missionary activity in the schools are absolutely baseless."

The bishop urged, meanwhile, that military rule in minority areas be abolished, or at least reduced to a minimum. He said this would improve interfaith cooperation and goodwill, "for which I pray."

For Emigres

Dublin —(RNS)— Those who emigrate from Ireland need the "prayers and active assistance" of all who remain, the country's Roman Catholic hierarchy said here in a pastoral letter.

Bus Rides Voted For Students

Lewiston — (RNS) — Three Maine communities with large Catholic populations will continue their practice of transporting private and parochial school pupils on publicly-financed school buses.

THE DECISION were made by the school superintendents of Lewiston and its sister-city Auburn, and by the superintending committee of Saco.

George Brickates, Saco city solicitor, pointed out that the city appropriated no money to transport such pupils; that present transportation funds were spent on the basis of a flat rate contract, not on the number of pupils; and that a Maine Supreme Court decision did not apply to this community's case.

The state's high court ruled that although it was not unconstitutional to carry such pupils at public expense, there was no permissive legislation and such transportation was illegal. Its ruling was on a case that originated in the capital city of Augusta.

The same policy will hold true at Lewiston. About 1,100 pupils attend Lewiston and Auburn parochial schools.

New Volta President Thanks Missioners

Ouagdougou — (NC) — The President of the Republic of Volta on proclaiming the nation's independence paid tribute to the Catholic clergy for having "provided the country with its first leaders."

President Maurice Yameogo in declaring this land-locked West African nation independent also paid tribute to France and to President Charles de Gaulle in particular for helping the old Upper Volta colony achieve its new status.

Yameogo issued his independence proclamation (at 12:01 a.m. on Aug. 5) as the nation's new red, white and black flag was unfurled over the government palace for the first time.

The Voltaic Republic, with its 105,900 square miles on the northern border of Ghana, has a total population of about 3,326,000 persons. While the Catholic population of 126,000 constitutes less than five per cent, it provides the backbone of the intellectual class.

President Yameogo in his independence address expressed in the name of the government "profound feelings of gratitude" to all who aided Upper Volta on its road to sovereignty: "to France, to General de Gaulle, to all the nations that have helped us, to the clergy who have provided the country with its first leaders, to the French professors who have patiently trained the responsible men of the country, to our traditional leaders who have guarded the integrity of the state against outside attack, to the veterans and former soldiers, always faithful to their honor."

Pope Stresses Unity Goal

Pittsburgh — (RNS) — Pope John XXIII has addressed to Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh a letter expressing the hope that the Liturgical Week scheduled here Aug. 12-25 will strengthen "the bonds of union of the faithful with the Chair of Peter" and contribute "towards the early return of those outside the fold to full participation in the true worship of God."

Bishop Wright will be host to the meeting, the 21st annual gathering of the North American Liturgical Conference. The parley will attract some 8,000, including two archbishops, 14 bishops, 900 priests and 300 nuns.

Liturgical Week has as its theme "The Liturgy and Unity in Christ."
