THE WEEKLY NOTE FROM MR. PEPSI:
Across the country our youth are packing up pencils, school books, brightly shined shoes and the latest "stories" from the country. Another year of school has begun.
Who can say how many minds will be shaped to greatness . . . or how many minds will be turned toward communism? It is in our schools where you will find tomorrow's leaders. However, the progress to be made toward bettering America's educational system is our responsibility.
If our schools fail . . . we are all guilty; if they succeed in making a better future a reality . . . we will all profit.
Incidentally—have you tried saving "Pepsi Needs" without smiling lately?
