Schools' Campaign Third of Way There

Clothing Appeal In Nov.

Washington — (NC) — The 1960 Thanksgiving Clothing Collection will be conducted under the direction of the U.S. Bishops will take place throughout the country November 20 to 27.

In a letter to the U.S. hierarchy announcing the collection, Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati cited the "great need" of "millions of people" throughout the world whom it will benefit.

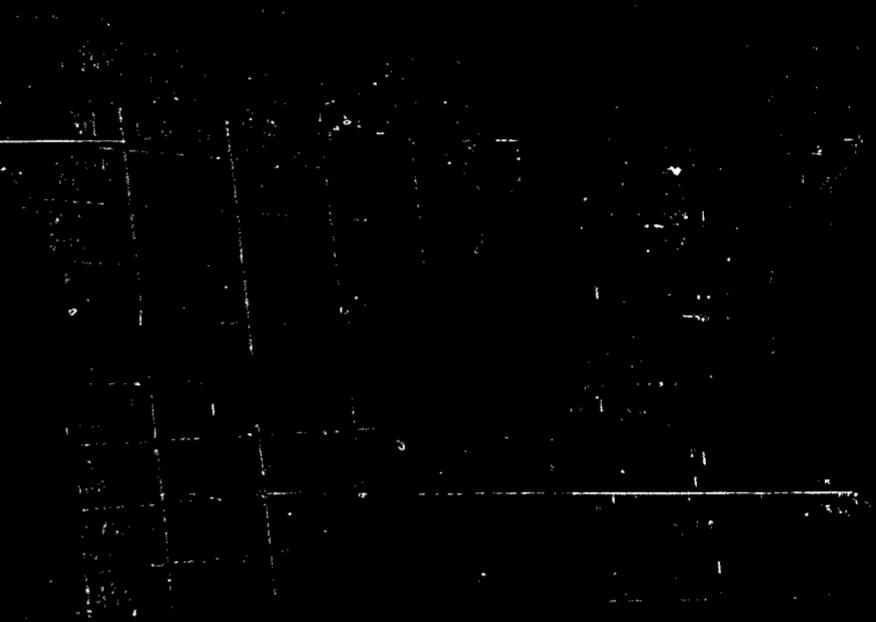

Archbishop Alter, chairman of the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said those aided are "people who would otherwise be left without sufficient clothing to cover bodies already suffering from under-nourishment and privation."

THIS YEAR'S drive will be the 18th annual Thanksgiving Clothing Collection sponsored by the U.S. Bishops. As in previous years, the usable clothing, shoes and bedding collected will be turned over to Catholic Relief Services, the National Catholic Welfare Conference's distribution in the needy.

CRS-NWC is the overseas relief agency of the U.S. Bishops and the largest private relief organization in the world.

A spokesman for the agency estimated that the clothing collections of previous years produced some 120 million pounds of usable clothing, 80% of which was bedding supplied.

He estimated the value of the supplies at $12 million.

City Banks Give $50,000

The Catholic High Schools' Campaign edged over its "third of the way there" total this week.

Amount reported to date is $1,586,550.

Goal is $4,100,000 in building two double high schools in Monroe County.

Totalling the total toward the goal was a $200,000 gift from former Rochester commercial and savings banker — the late George C. Miller, American, and $10,000 anonymous gift.

Other significant pledges this week from Rochester industries were $600 from Old Forge Co., $3000 from Wilmot Optical Co. and $6000 from the Rochester Novelty Co.

Parishioners gave by Sacred Heart Cathedral from to go over the $100,000 figure. Workers there reported a total of $100,114 pledged to date.

Other high figures include $60,000 given in Holy Name parish; $40,710 in St. Margaret Mary's and $22,450 in St. Thomas the Apostle parish.

MOLENTHIN: The diocesan campaign is a different approach one headed by Carl E. Molenthin who emphasized names of prominent individuals and organizations, as well as parishes. His emphasis about the schools is particularly the modernization of the buildings.

"The very high schools which will provide a high quality of education for a total of 2,000 of the best and able students for many decades to come and in doing so will greatly enhance the potential future development of many of our citizens of which we are so proud," he said.

"The new high schools which will provide a high quality of education for a total of 2,000 of the best and able students for many decades to come and in doing so will greatly enhance the potential future development of many of our citizens of which we are so proud," he said.

WILLIAMS: A. Knoll, St. Bonaventure, named one of the top 100 donors in the campaign. He said, "I do not get on the ball and do not know about it, the school cannot be built," he said.

FATHER SINGERHOFF: Funeral Set For Priest, War Hero

A veteran chaplain of two wars died this week.

Rev. David J. Singerhoff, U.S. Army chaplain during World War II and the Korean War, died Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1960.

His funeral will be held in St. Patrick's Church, Elmira, tomorrow (Saturday) at 10:30 a.m. Auxiliary Bishop Lawrence R. Casey will officiate the Requiem Mass. Rev. Leo Matzenhofer will give the funeral sermon.

Father Singerhoff, 48, became a war hero and died in service, was also librarian at St. Bernard's Seminary in 1944.

THE MILITARY decorations include the Purple Heart from Tunisia, Maltese Cross from Southern France, Bronze and the Khanda. For heroic actions in Korea, he was awarded the Korean War in 1953.

Six of his 22 years in the priesthood were spent in military uniform and a major portion of that period he was caring for souls in actual battle under enemy fire.

Ordained in 1937 he was first assigned to St. Francis Xavier Church, Rochester, and then to St. John's parish in Greece. He entered chaplain's service in 1941 and, after the War, was appointed in 1946 as curate at St. Alphonsus Church, Amherst.

Monsignor Hall's of Consecration Mass in St. Nicholas Church

At Syrian Church Mass Said In English

Mass in English is not an idle dream, for some future day.

It is an every Sunday event at St. Nicholas Church, Remington Street, Rochester.

The only paradox is that the familiar English is spoken in the rarely seen rites of the Mass as it is said in Syria and the Holy Land.

This outpost of the Middle East counts only 110 parishioners shepherded by Monsignor Andrew Hallik, pastor since 1945. The parish was established in 1927.

Mass at St. Nicholas is celebrated, technically speaking, in the Melkite-Byzantine Rite of the Catholic Church. Chief differences from the Latin Mass include language, originally Syrian Catholics used Greek and Arabic, are now permitted English; Holy Communion given under both species (bread and wine) to the faithful; deep bow instead of a genuflection.

Since there are so few parishioners they spot a visitor and are glad to be of help. All Catholics are authorized to attend Mass there and to receive Communion, although they should be instructed in the correct procedure beforehand. Sunday Mass is at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and each lasts about an hour.
