Nazareth Nun Authors Chapter on Educator
By SISTER MARGARET TERESA
Nazareth College

John Dewey: His Thought and Influence, ed. John Blawett, S.J. Fordham University Press. 242 pp. $5.00. In part by Sister Joseph Mary, Nazareth College.

Priests and teachers of the Rochester area who have studied under Sister Joseph Mary will be eager to note the unusual standing of this Dewey centennial volume to which she has contributed out of her years of personal experience and her long study of a highly influential and controversial educator.

Through her, Nazareth College shares in the unusualness; it is the only college representative of all the other contributors being chosen from university staffs.

It is no volume to be dismissed in a paragraph: the September, 1913, "Catholic World" places it first among new books and gives it a long and illuminating treatment by Rev. Richard Rousseau, S.J. "America," for Sept. 17, gives it a headline, "Spotlight on An Educator," and devotes two columns to it. Says "America's" reviewer, Charles F. Donovan, Dean of the School of Education of Boston College:

"Professional lamenters at the lack of scholarship emanating from Catholic universities may be surprised by a sympathy and effort to understand Dewey's development." It is also characterized, says "America," by "an emphasis on the younger Dewey, Dr. Donohue and Dr. Neill of St. Louis University, Dr. Zedler of Marquette University, Sister Joseph Mary and editor Fr. Blawett of Sophia University, Tokyo."

"America" points out that Sister Mary de Paul, Dean of Catherine McAuley College, has been asked to serve on a special planning committee for the Eastern Region, which includes 140 Sister Formation communities. Sister Ann Marie, National Executive Secretary of the Sisters of Charity of the Providence Hospital, acted as consultant at the meeting.
