Fulton High School, making its first appearance on an Aquinas football schedule, will be host to the Little Irish Saturday afternoon at Fulton, New York.

Friday, October 14, 1960

A bus caravan of 500 Aquinas students is slated to make the 90 mile trip. Games time is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Fulton will be guided by a new coach, Don Distin, who spent last year building from scratch.

COACH DISTIN has a nucleus of seven returning lettermen. Among them are three key backfield men, 7-foot-10-inch quarterback Jim Robinson, halfback Darryl Hayden and fullback Art Lago. Up front, the returnees are tackle Dan Tetra, 210 pounds and Dirk MacDemott, 215 pounds.

Fulton walloped Phoenix, 29-0, and Louisville, 42-0, early in the season but fell to a powerful Watertown team, 12-9.

Calling the signals for Aquinas will be Dick Coahy, "a master of deception" who is credited with one touchdown this season. Fullback John Toccano remains Aquinas' chief ground gainer. His pile-driving efforts, combined with the broken-field running of Pete Casertelli turned the tide against Times. Aquinas also came up with a better passing attack against the Buffalo team than they did against Corning in the season opener.

COACH JOE BRKO will hold pretty much with the line-up he used so successfully in the first two games. This will put Jetty Gears and Jim Charlerton at ends, George Kwako and Mike Riley at tackles, Jim Clineff and Joe Cofalanti at guards, Bob Cortez at center and Coachy, Casertelli, Toccano and Bill Lambert in the backfield.
