

Organist Says

Join Your Parish Choir

Do you whistle while you work? Or hum a merry tune?

Do you have a stereo or hi-fi set and like good music?

Do you think Catholic choirs should provide the very best "music to pray by?"

Then why not join your parish choir?

Our choir has a week for practice and the High Mass on Sunday and you can join.

This week, Hugh J. Dodge told the Courier Journal parish choirs throughout Rochester are in desperate need of new members. The St. Monica's organist and choir director said some parishes have to draft children because adults have failed to meet the need.

He valued a particular case over the rest that is few members of Catharine High choir or colleagues over their own personal goals.

"One man once had the best training in Church music in their school choir and goes singing and still taught all that he knew in new places," he said.

Dodge has been in charge of the musical program at St. Monica's since 1959 and in all the eight years recalls only three Catharine schoolchildren who volunteered for choir service.

Ed. Morgan is one of the organists invited to the Diocese's annual 2,000 families. "With a potential like that you'd think we'd be able to pack the choir loft," Dodge said. "But we have only 20 choir members — 8 men and 12 women. We've never made it up to 30 which would be just about enough for the size of our church."

Dodge, St. Monica's have a "high caliber" musical program," Dodge stated. "Yes."

He credited this to his singers, some of whom come from other parishes which do not have adult choirs.

He also said "strict rules about rehearsals" are the foundation stones of a good performance. If singers are allowed to "wander in when they find it convenient or just after practice occasionally" than the final production tragically shows it.

HIS CONSTANT companion — and rival — in choir work is his wife Anna. She is organist and choir director at neighboring Our Lady of Good Council parish. Dodge teaches piano at his studio at home 116 Elmwood Avenue.

He said he was offered a job in Rome. After playing the great organ in St. Mary Major Basilica, he had to turn it down.

The next morning for a wedding, Our famous church's organist was on vacation.

Dodge's schedule, however, prevented his accepting the invitation. He also played in St. Peter's at the Vatican and Notre Dame in Paris.

What was his choir's "best performance?" Dodge thinks they reached their peak when Mondonio, Genna, and Alberti sang Amen to Domini vobis canticum and we had plenty of room about it afterwards."

"We had our first High Mass of the season this past Sunday, as did most parishes as we are still anxious to welcome new members," the veteran organist concluded.
