BY SISTER M. JULIANA

Ask any nurse what she considers the most distinguishing mark of her profession and chances are her immediate reply will be, "my

However, the true origin of the cap has never really been discovered. Perhaps the habit of the Sister of Charity of St. Vincent & Paul founders of one of the first schools of nursing in Paris provided the inspiration.

Or the stiff white caps of the Deaconesses of Pastor Fliedner in Kaiserwerth might have been the forerunner of the crowning glory of today's nurse.

Very possibly the reason might have been that in the days of Florence Nightingale a lady always wore a cap in-

EACH SCHOOL of nursing seeks to have a cap which is distinctive and at the same time practical. At St. Joseph's Hospital in Elmira, New York, the style has been changed three times since the adoption of the first cap in 1908. The first graduates of St. Joseph's in 1911 wore a high, puffed less service.

linen creation somewhat like a baker's cap.

A new design, adopted in 1920 was quite larger with a wide brim and several pleats

This was replaced in 1940 by a smaller, stiffer, and more simple cap, one of the most common styles in the field of nursing. The School's graduates and students continuedto wear 'his small, attractive cap until August 7, 1960, Commencement Day for the Class of 1960 when a new and distinctively different cap was introduced.

DESIGNED BY a group from the hospital staff, it was approved by the Board of Directors of the Alumnae Association and St. Joseph's graduates on the hospital staff. Similar to the Army Nurse Corps cap in the front, this new and attractive cap comes to a point in the back where it is joined by three small studs.

Whatever the style or the nurse's cap of today symbolizes all that is good and sacred to the nurse in her profession. She looks on it as her crown of glory, the symbol of her dignity, a badge of self-
