The answer to that question was the French Holy Hour at Mount Mary Convent, now three decades old.

Mrs. Paradis, 77, still promotes the monthly devotion from her home. Shortly before the first Sunday of each month she phones 19 acquaintances, who aid her in her work. Each one in turn calls another 20 persons to remind them of the approaching holy hour.

Twice a year the group takes part in an afternoon of recollection for women. And once a year there is a threeday closed retreat for French-speaking women.

Program is "no excessive burden" at Central Catholic High School

Father Linford F. Greinader, Principal Central Catholie High School Johnstown, Pennsylvania

"Everybody Gains"

General statements are so often meaningless. But this one is full of meaning. not only to the people directly involved, but to Catholics all over the country. Here is what Pather Linford F. Greinader, principal of Central Catholic high school, Johnstown, Pa., reports:

"Everybody gains. Our high school has participated in the National Catholic Decency in Reading program for the past six years, during which more than 21,000 Catholic magazines and periodieals have been placed in the homes of the greater Johnstown area . . . The annual campaign has not been an exmer for the subscribers.

"The administration has the satisfactory feeling that the school has been taking a valuable part in Catholic activity, the students gain worthwhile lessons in salesmanship plus attractive prizes, and the school treasury has been considerably enriched with a minimum of effort."

The truth of the matter is: Everybody
