Kennedys, Study Topic

Washington — (RNS) — A teaching nun at the Catholic University of America has received a foundation grant of $1,500 to pursue a research project that will undoubtedly be of great interest to rather famous brothers, President John F. Kennedy and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

Sister Marie Carolyn Klickhamer, associate professor of history at Catholic University, had already begun her research on "The Presidents of the United States and their Attorneys General" before the Kennedy brothers started January 20 to write what surely will be an interesting new chapter in such relationships.

Sister Marie has discovered that some Presidents and their Attorneys General were as close as brothers, while others were often at odds. She will use the fellowship to travel to various cities where libraries and museums have manuscript collections of the papers of Presidents and their cabinet officers.

A native of Detroit, Sister Marie graduated from Siena Heights College, Adrian, Mich., and holds a Ph.D. from Catholic University where her dissertation was on the constitutional opinions of Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States from 1910 to 1921. Her new fellowship was awarded by the Evening Star Foundation of Washington.

Hope Voiced For Church In Poland

Warsaw — (RNS) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, voiced hope for the future of the Church in this Communist country during an Easter Sunday High Mass here.

Preaching before almost 1,000 persons in St. John's Cathedral, he said "the attempts of those people who would like to rebel against God and shut the lips of the Church are in vain, because we must rather obey God than men."

"So often seals have been laid on the mouth of the Church so that it would be silent. So often it has been burdened with stores. So often many false witnesses have come forth. But all that was in vain because Christ lives in the Church, and having once died will not die again."

Visits Set For Shut-ins

Toledo — (NC) — Four parishes have been selected by the Toledo Diocesan Council of Catholic Women to pilot the new "Friendly Visitor" project.

Mrs. Charles Bayer, chairman, said the project plan calls for visits to elderly shut-ins at the start, but will be expanded to include the blind, other age groups and those in institutions. Object of the project is to bring cheer and assistance to the aged and afflicted.

Talk It Over

Hemlines

By ANNE CULKIN

Dear Miss Culklin: What do you think of the new above-the-knee hemline for Spring? I have awful knees. Do you think I would look out of style or silly if I didn't wear my dresses that short? J. R.

Dear J. R.: I think you will look silly if you do wear them "that short!" And I would be of the same opinion even though you had attractive knees. A woman (young or old) who really knows fashion allows designers to serve her, but she will not allow them to dictate to her. She is well dressed because she is never guilty of the extreme.

When a new fashion calls for drastic change, she will not be one of the first to wear it. She, like all well-bred persons, has no desire to be conspicuous. If the fashion persists and becomes generally acceptable to the majority of women, she will modify it to meet her needs.

Now, J.R., let's apply these principles to the above-the-knee fashion. During the past year the hemline has gradually become shorter. This particular season (spring) some designers' clothes are being modeled by live and "know" window models in a style that exposes the kneecap (not the most attractive part of the body at best).

This does not mean that the smartly attired woman will wear her dresses that short anymore than she would allow herself to be equally conspicuous by wearing the below, mid-calf style dress that was popular five years ago. (This spring and summer you will find her dress shorter, but they will cover the kneecap for she will have modified the current fashion to the point where her hemline is in keeping with modesty and good taste.)

This woman, J.R., will be representative of the majority of women. This spring and summer the dresses are shorter than last year. The really smart woman, however, will see that her kneecap is covered and will, at the same time, satisfy the current fashion and her innate good taste.

Dear Miss Culklin: Do you think it is all right to give a boy a good night kiss after you've had a good time with him even though it wasn't a date? Please answer in your column since a few of my friends and I have been wanting to know. Thank you. Barbara

Dear Barbara: Why kill your chances of having a date with him? A kiss is an expression of genuine affection for another person. Only the shallow girl will use it as a form of payment for a movie, hamburger or bowling game. Tell your friends they would be wise to use their voices to say "thank you."

Dear Miss Culklin: My mother has told me again and again how much it revolts her to see a hair in food or to see anyone pick a hair out of food. What should a person do if he is eating some place with friends or his family and he finds a hair in his food? Mary K.

Dear Mary K.: If this were in a restaurant you would ask in a low voice that the food be removed from the table. In the home of friends, however, the situation described would prove to be a delicate one as the feelings of the hostess should be our first consideration. My suggestion would be to remove the hair unobtrusively and eat the food removed from the area where the hair had been removed. It is true, Barbara, that your meal might be spoiled but the evening of your hostess would not be.

Dear Miss Culklin: I attended a very nice dinner where there were a lot of important people. I was just about to start to eat when I spilled my water. I was never so embarrassed and couldn't think of what to say. What do you say when you have an accident when eating? Clumsy

Dear Clumsy: When we have an accident we merely say "I'm sorry" nothing more. To say more such as "I'm so clumsy" or "the beautiful table cloth" etc., indicates lack of poise. Accidents happen. When they do, the point is to make as little of them as possible. Your hostess will do the same.

Dear Miss Culklin: How can you stay on a diet if you haven't any will power? I want to lose weight but that hollow feeling in the stomach is too much for me. What can I do? Flora

Dear Flora: If a doctor is advising you, and I certainly hope he is, he will suggest certain bulky food that are filling but low in caloric content. Diet authorities hold that you need not suffer from hunger as you continue with your diet. The first few days are the hardest and it's then that you need will power.

Rosarians Meet, Plan Projects In Campbell

Campbell — The Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Church met at the American Legion Hall recently. Recitation of the Rosary was led by Mrs. Harry Cacace.

THE BUSINESS meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Martin Nee, when plans were completed for the annual Easter-bake sale which was held April 1 at Allis' from 10 a.m. to noon. Mrs. Max Dreher was chairman.

Mrs. John Viselli proposed to the members that they bring useful articles to help the Senior Girl Scout troop, under her direction, in its project of making "ditty bags" for children of migrant workers.

Mrs. George Adams discussed plans for a Cenacle retreat. Anyone interested should contact Miss Adelaide Olkowsky by April 10. Miss Helen Dondewicz, a guest, introduced the "Living Rosary" to members, and explained the many indulgences gained from it.

Coffee was served by Mrs. Joseph Kashmer and Mrs. John Viselli.

Miami Starts Dial-a-Saint

Miami — (RNS) — A Catholic telephone service called "Dial-a-Saint" has gone into operation in the Miami area. It is the first such Catholic installation in Florida.

The new service features 60-second tape-recorded messages on the life of the saint of the day or the history of the feast being celebrated on a particular day.

Diocesan priests have recorded the messages which can be heard by dialing a Miami number. More than 200 calls an hour can be handled by the equipment set up in St. Paul's Catholic Book Center here and operated as a public service by a local bank.
