Suzanne Wigg Joins Town, Country Musicals

SUZANNE WIGG

With the first notes of Town and Country Musicals' 1961 season, Miss Suzanne Wigg will realize her ambition to be in show business on a full-time basis.

Considerable experience in music and theatre well qualify Sue for her new position as assistant music director for Town and Country. After graduating from Our Lady of Mercy High School, she completed her music-drama education at Nazareth College. At Nazareth, she produced and directed an operetta, was twice chairman of "Winter Carnival" week end, directed the Glee Club and Orchestra and composed numerous songs for campus functions.

FOR SIX YEARS, Sue was conductor of "The Maids of Note", a choral group that regularly appeared on a local radio program. She also conducted the St. Mary's Hospital Glee Club, has made guest appearances with several Our Lady of Mercy groups and has lectured at Nazareth.

In 1954, Sue founded "Music Theatre", a musical comedy company composed of local professional talent. The company has performed often in the Auditorium and Highland Park Bowl and has made numerous out-of-town appearances. Sue was co-producer, music director and orchestra conductor for 12 "Music Theatre" productions.

For the past eight years, she has been employed in various phases of radio programming in Rochester. One notable interim —she was secretary to Mitch "Sing Along" Miller for awhile at Columbia Records in New York.

SUE'S DUTIES have already begun, as Town and Country's assistant music director. She has auditioned and engaged members of the eight piece orchestra, which will be permanent for the nine week season. Right now she says that things are progressing at a steady, orderly pace. However, when the season begins June 26, she expects the tempo to accelerate to a dead run.

While one show is playing, the next week's show has to be whipped into a polished production. Orchestra and chorus have to be rehearsed separately and together. Orchestrations sometimes have to be changed or adapted, in spite of long, preliminary hours spent in preparing a score.

These are just a few of the reasons Sue gives for asserting, "A musical comedy orchestra member not only has to be a top musician but serious minded as well. There's no room for temperment in this business."

TOWN AND COUNTRY'S music director will be Philip Fradkin, who has worked in that capacity on a number of off-Broadway shows. Fradkin, a piano virtoso, has been featured at Radio City Music Hall and New York Center Opera. He records on Westminster and Vanguard labels.

Sue resides at 593 Melville St., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wigg, and is a member of St. James Parish. Her column, "Summer Stock", will soon be seen in the Catholic Courier Journal. .. H.M.

Library Schedule

The Rochester Public Library, Main Library and Branches, will begin their summer schedule next week and will be closed on Saturdays from June 17 to Sept. 9.

Theatre News

Donnybrook

By EUPHEMIA WYATT

DONNYBROOK: — All the fans of THE QUIET MAN may now enjoy that pleasant film set to music with Art Lund impressively 6 ft. 4 as John Enright, the former American heavyweight and Philip Bosco, 6 ft. 3 as the unwilling Irish brother - in - law. As for the famous fight which covered three counties on the screen, its now roundabout and on and off the stage and under the haystack and into the watering trough.

There's also a tidy little free-for-all in the Pub egged on by the hearty, beshawled roysterers, Sadie and Birdy, but the most enticing character is the Mikeen Flynn of Eddie Foy, the miniature marriage agent whose comedy insinuates itself slyly into the show, his quicksilver feet never inactive.

Joan Fagan sings strongly as the strongminded Ellen and Susan Johnson as the Widow Carey has a rousing satiric ballad called "Sad was the Day" about her late husband. And then there is the veteran, Charles Nordstrom, who brings sentiment back with "A Toast to the Bride."

All of Johnny Burke's songs are highly singable and the Irish hornpipes with Jack Cole's dancers, graceful and erect in their kilts, are a delight against the green backgrounds of Ter'Arutinian's sets. DONNYBROOK is rich in fun and Foy.

CITY CENTRE MUSICALS

PORGY AND BESS: — It was revived as an opera without spoken dialogue and if the activity of Catfish Row was minimized the music was given its rich due. William Warfield sang with magnificence but his Porgy lacked the pathos of Todd Duncan and this Sportin' Life had more sophisticated badness than the impishness of Bubbles and Avon Long.

Serena and Crown were unsurpassable. One missed the goat that used to draw Porgy's little cart — too difficult for a two week revival — but appreciated the musical direction of Julius Rudel of America's great folk opera.

PAL JOEY: — This is a musical, dating from 1941 which is like a ripe peach with a rotten core as the grimy story by John O'Hara and the questionable lyrics by Hart are incased in one of Richard Rodgers most melodious scores in which "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered" is a prime example. Joey, first played by Joe Kelly, then in 1952 by Harold Lang, the dancer, is now taken over by Bob Fosse, choreographer and former 'hoofer'.

Joey, a small-time cad becomes the gigolo of a bepearled Chicago matron, who sets him up in his own night club and then as suddenly discards him. Joey is a Liliom without a soul and Fosse is stronger in caddishness than charm. Carol Bruce now sings the rich sinner, long identified with Vivienne Segal but Eileen Heckart, the noted character actress comes in for just one song and walks off with the honors.

Helen Gallagher once injected hilarity into the chorus girls with her dancing. Now the humor is supposedly in the flagrant costumes. It will be discouraging if PAL Joey proves the most profitable of City Centre's Spring revivals.

OFF BROADWAY

THE DEATH OF BESSIE SMITH & THE AMERICAN DREAM:—Both are by Edward Albee and both lack the terse restraint of his first play, prize-winning ZOO STORY. BESSIE SMITH shows the brutal and agonizing indifference of the staff of two hospitals near Memphis to the case of a negro woman horribly injured in a motor accident when her negro escort applies for emergency aid. Woven into it is a vignette of a hardshelled white nurse tyrannizing over a negro orderly and trying to blackmail a white interne.

Annoyance is the only reaction of them all when they find the woman is already dead. But it is a better play than THE AMERICAN DREAM which opens auspiciously as a stylized satire with Mommy recounting her shopping experiences to a captive Daddy. Grandma, small and agile, is fighting off the day when she will be boxed up and sent away.

There is also Mrs. Barker, a vague visitor, and it might be very funny if it ended there but it goes on and on increasing in ineptness and developing obscenities. Better played than it deserves.

NOONTIDE:—This an adaptation by Howard Hart of an early play by Paul Claudel, the distinguished Catholic poet and former French ambassador to Washington. The story is a curious one about the volatile but fatally attractive Yse (pronounced Eesay) who, on the long voyage to Hong Kong with her husband, meets two other men, Almeric, a swaggering adventurer, who had once wanted to marry her and Mesa, an ex-Seminarian, who tries to escape her.

She dismisses Almeric but when her husband leaves her alone for a month in Hong Kong, she elopes with Mesa. In the last act, she has left Mesa for Almeric and is facing death with him in the Boxer Rebellion. When Mesa appears with a pass through the lines and some money, Almeric knocks him out and they escape but Yse returns to die with Mesa.

He repents his sin but feels that through Yse, his cold heart has learned love and he can now love God! A difficult play with fine lines and strong cast, including Tani Seitz and Michael Wager.

Separate Classification

Never Take Candy From a Stranger—The subject matter of this film deals with a perennial sociological problem, namely, the molestation of small children. Although treated with moral caution and without sensationalism the film could, in a mass medium of entertainment, have a seriously harmful effect upon the very young and uninformed unless accompanied by a parent. For this reason the advertising of this film carries the observation: 'Notice to Parents—No child will be admitted unless accompanied by you.'"
