Two Redemptorist Fathers associated with the Rochester Diocese will mark golden and silver jubilees this month.

FATHER WINIECKI will celebrate a Solemn Anniversary Mass on Sunday, June 18, at 9 a. m. in St. Joseph's Church, Rochester.

Bishop Kearney will preside. Jubilee sermon will be preached by the Rev. Gerald Whelan, C.S.S.R., rector of the Redemptorist Preparatory Seminary, North East, Pa.

During Father Winiecki's assignment in the Rochester Diocese, he was confessor to various religious orders and at St. Bernard's Seminary for many years.

For a time, he conducted the popular Wednesday devotions in honor of Our Mother of Perpetual Help at St. Joseph's Church.

FATHER BAUMAN will offer his Silver Jubilee Mass on Sunday, June 25 in St. Joseph's Church, Rochester, at 11 a. m.

After completing his novitiate at Rochester, Md., he continued his studies at Mount St. Alphonse Seminary, Esopus, N. Y., where he was ordained by Auxiliary Bishop Stephen Donohue of New York on June 21, 1936.

Father Bauman was assigned to the missions of Brazil where he labored for 13 years. For a time during World War II, he was stationed at St. Joseph's Church.

Largest Fisher Graduating Class Starts 'Journey Through Life'

By JEREMY RYAN

Last week 75 St. John Fisher seniors gave a final tug to their mortarboards and marched across the stage of Rosina O'Doherty Kearney auditorium to receive their degrees. Statistically, it was a group with some noteworthy features.

Their average age was 23.3 (up 1.8 from the year before).

There were 22 fathers with a total of 24 children (up 15 and 22 respectively from 1959-60 class).

And it was the largest Fisher class in history — and the only one to count a Bishop among its members. (Bishop Kearney received the college's first honorary degree at the commencement.)

This week the mortarboards have been removed, the diplomas framed and hung, the graduates quietly passed from one phase of their lives to the next.

"We shall watch your journey through life with great interest," said Father Lavery, president of the college. This week that journey began. For an indication of how it began, we consulted Fisher Placement Director Richard Cappon.

Here is his capsule review of immediate prospects:

- 68% of the class have already accepted positions.
- 18% will continue their studies in graduate school.
- 7% will enter military service.
- 8% (or six students) are undecided.

Of those students entering the business community, 16 will go into accounting; 17 general business; 9 into so-called "technical areas" such as chemistry, math and physics; and 4 into teaching. The others have accepted a variety of different jobs, from a position in the Secret Service to Inertial Guidance Analyst at an air force base.

Starting salaries (high: $565/month, low: $350/month) are higher across-the-board than last year with accounting graduates in the top economic bracket and liberal arts majors in the bottom. As an example, last year's average monthly wage for accountants was $400 a month. Although no average is available for this year, 12 out of the 15 students placed will collect a gross pay of over $475 monthly.

One guide to why the graduates fared so well, according to Cappon, is the number of on-campus job interviews, 431 as against only 249 last year. (41 companies were involved, up 11 from the year before.)

"I think," he said, "the large number of interviews was primarily due to the students' awareness that they might face a stiff economic battle when they left college. During the early part of the year, there was a great deal of talk about a recession, and I think this acted as a spur to many of the seniors."

Even more pleasing to Cappon was the total value assistantships, fellowships and scholarships which members of the class received. It amounted to well over $40,000, a dramatic increase from the $11,100 of the year before. Of the 13 seniors who will continue their studies in graduate school "almost all," he says, "will receive some financial aid."

What does he consider the major factor in the sharp rise in grants to Fisher students?

Four graduates with a future are William Montelth who will be a public accountant in New York City; George Gagler, also an accountant, at Buffalo; John Brydges, same position, Atlanta, Georgia, and Paul Robinson, a systems engineer with IBM, Rochester.

St. John Fisher graduates head for their new frontiers—Donald Maccio, to be mathematician in research at Griffith Air Force Base, Rome; Charles Klumjian, chemist at Kodak; Father John Polukis, their college professor of physics; James Bittle, inertial guidance analyst at Gentile Air Force Base, Dayton.

"A concerted effort by not only the placement office, but the entire administration and faculty, to find out what was available in this area and make the students aware of their opportunities."

An outstanding example is the case of Edwin Soeffing of 4646 St. Paul Boulevard, a cum laude graduate who was the only double award winner in Fisher's senior class (the John A. Murray Scholarship for academic proficiency and leadership in college life; the Student Board of Governors Award for outstanding contributions to the student life and activities of St. John Fisher College).

Soeffing, a history major, received encouragement from every college to which he applied for financial assistance. He was awarded the Presidential Scholarship valued at $3,000 at Boston College; the Notre Dame Law Association Scholarship worth $2,400 for study at Notre Dame University; a scholarship worth $2,400 for study at St. John's University in Brooklyn; and a scholarship and counseling worth $3,100 and a possible total value of $5,100 from Villanova University.

He will enter Villanova in the fall.

Weedsport Pastor Marks 35th Jubilee

Weedsport — The thirty-fifth anniversary of Rev. Leo A. Jones' ordination to the priesthood was celebrated Sunday, June 11, at St. Joseph's parish hall. The event was observed by his parishioners, friends about the community as well as members of his family.

A Mass of Thanksgiving was offered at 10:30 a. m. in St. Joseph's Church. In the afternoon, from 3 to 5, a public reception was held in the parish hall.

FATHER JONES was ordained at Rochester June 12, 1926. He did his preparatory study in St. Andrew's and St. Bernard's Seminaries. A native of Rochester, he is a son of the late Peter and Catherine O'Reilly Jones. Three brothers and a sister reside in the Rochester area.

Following his ordination he was assigned to St. Francis Parish in Auburn where he remained until 1934 when he became chaplain of Auburn Prison. Eight years later, he was assigned to the Weedsport pastorate in June, 1942.

Father Jones' administration at St. Joseph's has been marked by an increase in parish membership as well as an expansion of parish activities, most notable of which was the construction of the new church at the corner of South Seneca St. and Hamilton Road.

'Fiesta' Set At St. Rita's

St. Rita's parish, West Webster, will hold its annual "fiesta" Friday and Saturday evenings, June 23 and 24.

Program for the two evenings includes games and events for all age groups, according to Rev. Francis Kleehammer, pastor.

Boys Summer Program At Camp McQuaid

Camp McQuaid, providing recreation and instruction for boys six through twelve years, will open its fourth summer of activity on June 26. The camp will run through August 18 in four two-week sessions under the supervision of McQuaid faculty members.

THE CAMP'S activity is focused around the spacious McQuaid campus on the corner of Elmwood and South Clinton Aves. It offers a well-balanced athletic program which includes individual instruction and team play in such popular sports as swimming, riflery, archery, tennis, golf, baseball, basketball, football, volleyball, and soccer. The swimming program is handled in cooperation with the Rochester CYO, whose pool is utilized.

To provide adequately for all age groups the camp also features an extensive program of photography, handicraft, nature lore and—for the first time this year—cartooning. There will also be a special reading improvement program integrated with the regular day camp schedule.

For more information, call the camp directors: Terrence Foley, BU 8-4569; Herbert Janick, CL 4-5536; or write to Camp McQuaid, 1800 Clinton Ave. So., Rochester 18.

Frank Salamone, with his sons Stephen and Mark, will teach at Monroe High School, and Joseph Fratangelo, with his children Paula and Robert, is scheduled to teach at a local high school too. Both Salamone and Fratangelo played double role of husband and student during college years.
