'A Holy Hill' Groundbreaking Draws 400 At Mt. Savior

The site on which Mount Saviour Monastery is located in Big Flats near Elmira was described last Sunday by Bishop Kearney as "a holy hill—one that Jesus loves." Occasion was a groundbreaking ceremony for the monastery's building program.

SPEAKING TO about 400 persons who attended ceremonies launching the $500,000 project, Bishop Kearney stressed the importance hills played in the life of Christ. Referring to a book entitled "The Hills Jesus Loved," the bishop said it is apparent from the Big Flats monastery's growth and progress since it was founded 10 years ago that the Benedictine community has God's blessing.

The Very Rev. Damasus Wizen, prior of Mount Saviour, welcomed the Bishop and guests and reviewed the monastery's history.

Among those present were Abbot Leo Rudloff of the Dormition Abbey in Jerusalem and Abbot Walter Heimstetter of Our Lady of the Genesee Monastery in Piffard, N.Y. Also fifteen priests of the Elmira area were in attendance.

The Honor Guard of the Elmira Knights of Columbus organization also attended. Following the ceremony, the bishop offered Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the monastery chapel. The monastery choir sang the "Haec Es Domus Domini" under the direction of its composer, Maximilian Albrecht.

CONSTRUCTION OF a dormitory and activities building is to begin in the fall. The new facilities are expected to meet the needs of 40 members of the community. The community now numbers eight priests and 30 monks studying for the priesthood and serving in other capacities.

The monks now reside in a farm house that was part of the former Hofbauer farm.

Mission Helpers Hold Week-end Institute

"The world is not a bad place. It's the place where people become saints. It's a good place," said Rev. Charles T. Mulholland of the diocese of Raleigh, North Carolina in an address to the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart at their Motherhouse in Towson.

(The Mission Helpers conduct a Mission Center in Fairport and another in Itasca in the Diocese of Rochester).

Recently returned from a year at the International Center of the Better World Movement in Rome, Father Mulholland conducted a week-end institute at the Sisters House of Studies, "The Better World Movement is not an organization," he stressed. "It is a spirit within the Church."

IN SUBSEQUENT talks the priest defined the spirit as that of charity. "Christ didn't mention a particular church, not particular sacraments when He gave the distinguishing mark of His followers. He did say 'By this will all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another'."

The message sounded by the apostle of the Tarheel state Reverend John A. Hardon, S.J., was an echo of that given by Theology of the Sacred Heart, with which the Sisters began their summer program of studies last June. "Short of a beatific vision there is no way of showing our love for Christ except in the person of our neighbor," emphasized the noted professor of fundamental theology at West Baden College and author of Protestant Churches in America.

Approximately 150 Sisters attended the institute. For the past six weeks they have been taking courses in theology, psychology of the exceptional child and the Church and Social Order. These have been conducted by Reverend Joseph N. Tylanda, S.J., Reverend W. J. Jenks, C.S.S.R., and Sister M. Fides, M.H.S.F.

On Aug. 21 the Sisters will depart for their missions located in 24 dioceses and archdioceses in this country and in Puerto Rico.
