

$30 Million To Fight Crime

FASHINGTON — (RNS) — Congress has passed and sent on to President Kennedy a $30,000,000 measure designed to aid communities in fighting juvenile delinquency.

The bill provides for a three-year program involving a limited number of projects, most of them in the nation's larger cities.

It is expected that President Kennedy will sign the measure which places the program under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. As requested by the President, the program will emphasize assistance to unemployed, out-of-school youth through vocational training, counseling and job placement.

Deed of God

By SISTER MARGARET TERESA

Nazareth College

The Deed of God, By Rev. John W. Lynch. Sheed '61. 125 pp. $2.95.

Readable, poetic, and full of wonder and thankfulness for the Deed of God, the sacrifice by which day after day we live — this fourth book of our Owego poet-priest finds a new way of lifting the mists of routine from the Mass.

Father Lynch's poetic idiom, first formed in A Woman Wrapped in Silence, moves very freely now. Short lines echo the suspense and stillness of the mind when great ideas invade it; complete changes in the verse form lift us to new levels within the poetic story.

Thomas Aquinas is to sing the Eucharist at a certain point in history; then English must sing as Latin can, and narrow literalness is thrown away. There is, however, no straining after technical excellence as such.

The poem is simply planned. There are four sections. In the first, the Child grows in the womb, mounts the Cross. The images that govern are Mary's moment of offering—

"She holds Him, Victim, to the roasts of sacrifice, and here surrenders Him"— and Christ's dying, in worship in grief, thanks, petition—

The grief For deeds and for lack of deeds. That bruise his mind . . . The number sum of what we did . . . and the majesty of the Saviour at every moment "He is tall. Under Him his planets burn. His stars . . ."

Part II is very brief, a picture of His lost priests on that night so soon (and so long, it must have seemed) after the Last Supper, when "quiet violence was in this room" and the holy words of the Deed had been first said.

Part III shows Paul shaping the wondrous Deed again in worship, but this time in no grief and thank and petition; instead the shroud of loneliness apart from Him. From Paul's series of poems take us to Justin Gregory, cathedral rising, Thomas of Aquin, Luther, Tertullian and finally to Pius X and Pius XII, two who brought the Deed more readily within the reach of all, "summoned men to come, to kneel, to eat. To multiply the Deed for peace."

Paul's series of poems takes us round the globe at dawn through many countries, until we show how

"Earth, the spinning earth, that reels through space bleeds holy in His hands, for all the earth Is altar, and the altar lifts . . ."

Not the least appealing for many will be the picture of "Manhattan strutting to the sea," its skyscrapers "new

R. P. Lanson Requiem Held

Funeral Mass for Detective Richard P. Lanson was offered in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Monday, Sept. 18. Detective Lanson, 59, of 163 Westfield St., a member of Rochester Police Department since 1927 died Sept. 15, 1961.

SOLEMN REQUIEM Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Leo V. Smith assisted by the Rev. Edward J. Tolster, deacon and the Rev. Ernest Kurzejewski, subdeacon. Also present were the Rev. Paul G. Wohlrahl and the Rev. Ronald Gaesser.

Detective Lanson was a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel Men's Club, the Locust Club and Police Benevolent Association.

A native of Rochester, he attended Holy Apostles School.

He was appointed to the police force as a patrolman, Dec. 16, 1927, promoted to Grade B detective August 1, 1935; advanced to Grade A detective, Jan. 1, 1951. He was a guard to President Kennedy's party when he was during the presidential campaign.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Josephine (Jean) Lanson, three sons, Richard A., Robert J., and Webster and Sgt. Donald C. Lanson, U.S. Marines; three sisters, Miss Isabelle Lanson; Mrs. Irene Payne, Williamsville and Miss Ruth V. Lanson.

Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Arrangements by Alvah Halloran and Son Funeral Home.

Caldwell, Cook Development Open To Public On Sunday

English Village West, another Caldwell & Cook residential development in the town of Greece, off Mt. Read Blvd., between Green, English Rd. and Latta Rd., officially opens Sunday, Sept. 24, for public inspection.

Caldwell & Cook will unveil an unusual version of the traditional Cape Cod style called the Winston. This home, together with new adaptations of Caldwell & Cook's successful Lynnfield, Westchester and Yorktown IV, form the four model homes of the new development. All four models have been decorated and furnished by Julie Sherman of Baton Rouge, La.

THE WINSTON features a large old-fashioned family room-kitchen with a wood burning fireplace set in a full brick wall. Sliding glass doors connect the family room with a patio.

Another interesting feature in its departure from Cape Cod styles, is a spacious bedroom-bathroom-dressing room suite to insure privacy for the owners. There is also a dining room, living room, powder room on the first floor and two bedrooms and a bath upstairs.

Jack Caldwell, partner in the building firm, reports that Stewart Mott, former chief of the F.H.A. land planning bureau, was completely responsible for planning this new development.

Irish Hymn's In German

Cologne — (RNS) — German translators of ancient Irish hymns are now being sung by the choir of Cologne Cathedral at the request of Joseph Cardinal Frings, Archbishop of Cologne.

It all began last June when Cardinal Frings heard an Irish choir sing the hymns in Gaelic at the International Festival of Sacred Music in Cologne. He asked that copies of the songs be sent to him and since then they have been sung regularly.

The hymns are translations of "Don Oche ud im Beithil," a traditional Christian carol; and "Deus Meus," an 11th century composition by the Irish poet, Maoliosa O'Braichain.

Pope Blesses Animal Group

Castel Gandolfo — (RNS) — Pope John XXIII bestowed his apostolic blessing here on the National Catholic Society for Animal Welfare in the U.S. which was founded two years ago with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

As the American counterpart of the British Catholic Study Circle for Animal Welfare, the NCSAW has as its primary purpose to spread knowledge of the Church's teachings on animals.

The organization also is active in campaigns to prevent cruelty to animals, such as legislation requiring humane methods of slaughtering.

Forgive Sins In English

London — (NC) — The former Archbishop of Bombay has urged that priests be empowered to give absolution in English.

"It is conceivable that Our Lord should have absolved the penitent women of the 'Good Thief' in a language unknown to them?" asked Archbishop Thomas Roberts, S.J.

Archbishop Roberts, who was Ordinary of Bombay from 1937 until 1950, posed his question in a language and worship, or Society of Britain's Vernacular Society.

Three Capuchins To Receive Subdiaconate

Geneva — Three young Capuchin clerics will be ordained to the Subdiaconate by Bishop Kearney on Saturday, Sept. 23, at Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary. The Bishop will confer the first of the major orders upon Frater Eugene M. Policelli of Orange, N.J., Frater Cyprian M. Rosen of Little Falls, N.Y., and Frater Damian M. Colicchio of Hoboken, N.J.

Many resident of the Geneva area are expected at the Seminary Chapel to assist at the ceremony and to greet Bishop Kearney.

Prisoners Design Chapel

Lorton, Va. — (RNS) — The dedication of a new $200,000 chapel at the Lorton Reformatory here was also a testimonial to the dedication of men behind bars. Much of the design of the chapel and a considerable part of the work was done by convicts.

The chapel itself was designed by a prisoner who has served 5½ years of a 17-year sentence for forging $100 bills. He studied design and architecture, winning a Bachelor of Science degree, when an Italian college allowed him to study by mail while he served a previous sentence at San Quentin Prison.

Perhaps the most striking scene is the display of a crucifix sculptured by a man serving a 10-year sentence for robbery.

The convict-designer of the chapel did most of his drafting while in a Washington jail cell as he awaited transfer here and later in the office of the federal reformatory's Catholic chaplain, Father Carl J. Breitfeller.
