Qualifies for Gold Medallion

New Plan for Split-Level Colonial House Example of 'Better Home - Better Life'

Architect Herman York clearly had in mind the theme of National Home Week, "A Better Home - A Better Life," when he designed this split-level Colonial-style house in honor of the week being celebrated nationally Sept. 23 to Oct. 1.

Convinced that total electric living is a basic part of a better life today, York designed the house to meet Gold Medallion standards for all-electric homes. He specified electric baseboard heating, 200 ampere electric service, air conditioning water heater, and an all-electric kitchen featuring range, refrigerator-freezer and automatic dishwasher.

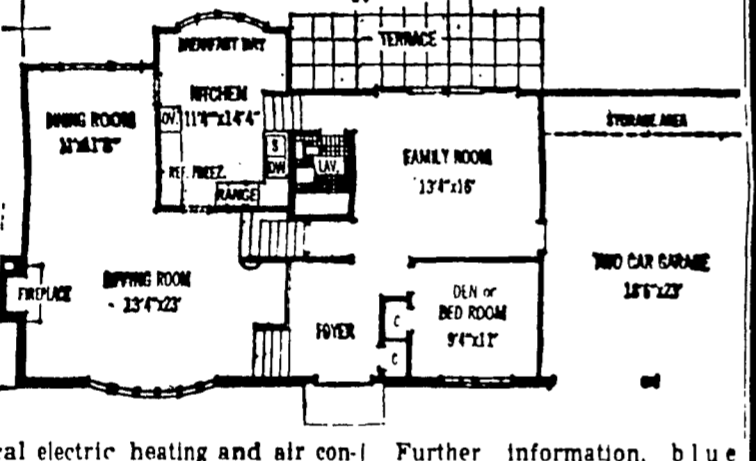

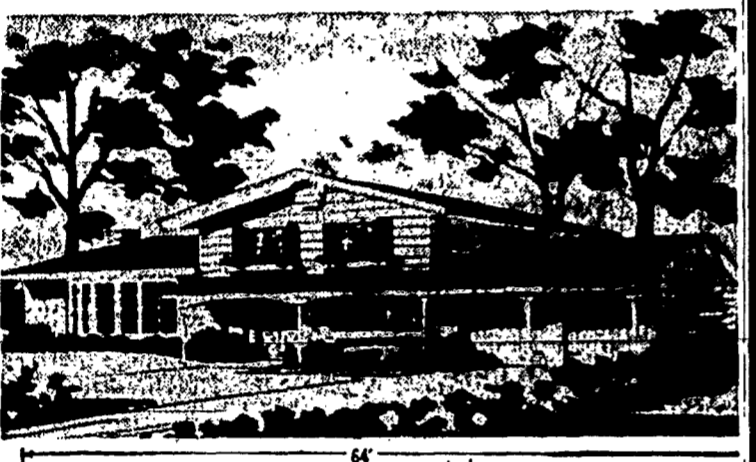

Foyer, den or extra bedroom, family room and lavatory-laundry are on one level. On another level are the living and dining rooms and kitchen with breakfast bay area. The upper level, not shown, has three bedrooms and a full bath.

Exterior features include wood siding with masonry used as an accent material. Asphalt shingles, durable and low in applied cost, are specified for the roof. York recommends a multicolored blend of asphalt shingles as a basis for a wider choice of exterior colors on sidewalls, trim and accent areas.

Highlighting the entrance area are two handsome panel doors of ponderosa pine. A diamond pattern was chosen for the glass in these doors as well as for the double-hung wood windows in the den.

Both the living and dining rooms are brighter because of wide bay windows of ponderosa pine. In keeping with the Colonial styling, all interior doors are stock panel units.

To assure efficient, economical electric heating and air conditioning, York specified the use of mineral wool insulation to meet standards of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association.

Further information, blue prints and specifications can be obtained from Herman H. York, Architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, New York. Please refer to plan SR-3.

Bible Vigil Series Listed

A series of Bible Vigils is being planned for Sundays at 5 p.m. in St. Michael's Church, Clinton Ave. North, beginning Sunday, Oct. 1.

The series will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Benedict Ehmann, and will be open to all people who are interested, Catholics and Non-Catholics.

THE VIGIL will consist of three readings from the Bible selected to illustrate a single theme. The themes will develop in a progressive order over the Sundays of the year. The first will be "Hearing the Word of God," and the Bible selections illustrating it will be from Proverbs, chapter 8, 2nd Esdras, chapter 8, and St. Luke's Gospel, chapter 4.

To each portion of the Word of God, the congregation will respond with Bible verses, often from the Psalms, and with other appropriate prayers and hymns.

The Vigil will last one half hour and will be followed by Benediction.

"Through devout and attentive hearing of the Word of God and loving response to it, participants in these Bible Vigils will, it is hoped, develop a deeper understanding of the Bible, and will come closer to realizing in their own lives the purpose for which God revealed His Word," Father Ehmann said.
