Dioceses Slate Catechetical Day

Washington (NC) — Parish in more than 75 dioceses are expected to sponsor Catechetical Day observances this month to bring the story of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine to more Catholics.

THE ROLE OF THE CCD as the official agency of the Church charged with bringing systematic religious instruction to adults and children not enrolled in Catholic schools will be explained in most dioceses on September 17.

This was announced here by the National Center of the CCD which noted that the Catechetical Day also will be related in most observances to the 11th National and 14th Inter-American Congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine to be held in Dallas, Tex., November 28 to December 1.

The CCD enrolls nearly four million elementary and secondary public pupils in its Schools of Religion and several thousand adults in discussion clubs.

Special Vocation For Filipinos

Chicago (NC) — Filipino Catholic students were told here that their country's unique position as a Catholic nation in the Far East gives them a special vocation.

Father Bernard J. Cooke, S.J., chairman of the theology department at Marquette University, Milwaukee, said Filipinos should share with others not only their material goods and skills, but their culture, the way of thinking and their Faith.

FATHER COOKE gave the closing address at the third national convention of the Filipino Students Catholic Association.

Some 120 delegates attended the meeting at Sacred Heart Academy here. They came from St. Louis, Baltimore, New Orleans, Washington, D.C., Milwaukee, Galveston, Tex., Kansas City, Boston, New York, Jersey City, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland, San Francisco and Chicago.

The President, under the bill, is authorized to make loans, advances, grants and contracts with private, nonprofit organizations and agencies, both in the U.S. and abroad, who are working in the field of refugee aid.

Talk It Over

TV Shows

By ANNE CULKIN

Dear Miss Culklin: What TV programs do you feel are all right for young people to see? I have two teenage daughters and a son of six. Many thanks. Concerned Mother

Dear Concerned Mother: May I recommend Catholic Preview of Entertainment, a monthly publication which has sections classifying motion pictures, TV shows, comic books and stage plays, and recommends certain recordings. To quote Rev. Joseph H. Gerhartz, editor of the Eastern Montana Catholic Register: "I personally think this is a must subscription in every Catholic home where there are children." It costs four dollars per year and can be ordered from: Catholic Periodicals Inc., Carmel, New York. Many diocesan papers carry an excellent listing of TV shows and movies, another reason for subscribing to your own Catholic newspaper.

To use an excerpt from the Catholic Preview of Entertainment: "Everyone knows well that very often children can avoid the transient attack of a disease outside their own home, but cannot escape it when it lurks within the home itself. It is wrong to introduce risk in any form into the sanctity of home surroundings." This was written to apply to TV shows.

Dear Miss Culklin: Do you think it is ok for girls to wear slacks to a football game? Margot

Dear Margot: If the majority of girls do so in your community or on your campus, don't hesitate to wear them. But we are referring to the same type of slacks, aren't we. I'm speaking about the kind that permits one to climb bleachers and sit in a comfortable position because they are not so tight that the seams are endangered and good taste and modesty are not questioned.

Dear Miss Culklin: I don't like to eat breakfast. What do you say about vitamin pills? McD

Dear McD: When one's personal physician prescribes a specific type of vitamins, we take them. Otherwise save your money or that of your parents by eating well-balanced meals. And do remember that breakfast is a meal, too, even though a shocking number of people like yourself aren't eating it.

You know, don't you, that certain nutrients are necessary to health and to beauty? The condition of the hair, teeth and complexion is determined to a great extent by what you eat. So is your vitality and your disposition. Medical authorities claim breakfast to be the most important meal of the day. Better start eating it.

Dear Miss Culklin: My fiance finished college in June. One night during graduation week we went to a night club in a nearby city with three other couples. If there is anything more disgusting in the world than that show was I hope I never see it!

The star of the show was revolting. When the lights went on and the waiter came to our table he asked us how we liked the show. I told him in plain language what I thought about it. His reply was: "She's a good girl; she doesn't drink or smoke."

His ignorance, Miss Culklin, didn't trouble me as much as the three couples who were with us did. With the exception of two girls who were college seniors, all were college graduates. They excused the immorality of this entertainer with the comment that maybe it was the only way the poor thing had to make a living. What would you say about such a stupid remark from educated persons? Night Clubber

Dear Night Clubber: Apparently those in your group went through a college but the college didn't go through them. The world is full of "educated" fools. You had the unhappy experience of spending an evening with six of them! The same six multiplied over thousands of times becomes part of the group that is greatly responsible for the pagan "entertainment" that is paid for and applauded in a nation we call Christian.

Dear Miss Culklin: What if you were walking down the street and a girl you thought you knew was about ten feet in front of you. You said "Hi, Judy," and then you saw that it wasn't Judy but someone you didn't even know. What would you do so she wouldn't think you were being fresh? It Happened

Dear It Happened: Apologize and state your case. After a statement such as "I'm very sorry, I thought you were someone I knew," continue on your way.

Dear Miss Culklin: A certain boy is always teasing me and this aggravates me. Sometimes I say things to him which I could kick myself for saying. How can I stop this? Helen

Dear Helen: To those who are being teased, we say, "Don't be annoyed." The person doing the teasing usually like his victim very much. To those who do the teasing we say — better soft pedal it. A little teasing goes a long way. To you, Helen, I say if you want to avoid saying what should never be said, don't become so frustrated that you speak first and then think. Try it the other way around.
