De Profundis

By MARY TINLEY DALY

The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year, of wailing winds, and naked woods, and meadows brown and sere.

These words of William Cullen Bryant, written nearly a century ago, are applicable every November. However, this is a fitting and natural melancholy, borne with the season of mist and cold, of falling leaves. It is not a despairing one—this Month of the Holy Souls.

As the black-bordered envelopes are distributed in church, we are asked to list the names of beloved relatives and friends to receive the benefits of Masses and prayers throughout the next 30 days.

And how heavily indulgenced they are.

THE LISTING, at our house and at ours, brings thoughts of those we knew and loved. The list grows heartwrenchingly longer each year—so long that now we have to add an extra sheet of paper into the little envelope.

The list begins, in fact, with the names for whom we used to pray in childhood. "Lord have mercy on Grandma and Great-uncle Pat!" Then were added, while still in childhood, other names, one by one, but always "old folks." Later came names of relatives we knew more intimately—uncles, aunts, cousins.

Now, in middle life, that list is indeed long; with the names not only of older kinfolk and family friends, but also many of our own generation—more and more of our own generation. Also included are some we never knew personally but, for one reason or another, we want to include.

One such on our own list this year is Dr. Tom Dooley, with a prayer for continued success of his wonderful work.

Nuns At UNESCO Conference

Boston — (RNS) — Representatives of Catholic organizations were among the 2,000 American and African delegates at the Eighth National Conference of the United States National Commission for UNESCO in Boston. Shown between sessions are (left to right): Sister Mary Ann Ida, B.V.M., president of Mundelein College, Chicago; Sister M. Walbeerga, of the Franciscan Missionary Sisters for Africa; N. D. Ukachi Onyewu of Nigeria, former executive secretary of the All African Students Union in Washington, D.C.; and Sister M. Cuthbert, of the Franciscan Missionary Sisters for Africa. A highlight of the UNESCO meeting was a special conference for some 500 Boston parochial and public high school students.

Nazareth Graduate In Opera Competition

A graduate of Nazareth College has entered the finals of the Philadelphia Lyric Opera Company's "Opera Auditions" competition. Candida Pilla, young Trenton, N.J., soprano will compete with other finalists in December for three cash awards. She is a member of the Philadelphia Lyric Opera next season. She won a regional tryout recently. Miss Pilla graduated magna cum laude from Nazareth in 1958 with a bachelor of science degree. She later studied at Villa Schifanoia, Florence, Italy, graduating in 1959 with a master of music degree. She has appeared as soloist with the Trenton Symphony Orchestra.

Couple Married At St. Charles

Miss Donna Dibley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Dibley of Conard Dr., and Allan G. Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schroeder of Fairlea Dr., exchanged marriage vows in St. Charles Borromeo Church. The Rev. Edward Reddy, O.F.M., of St. Bonaventure University, officiated. The bride's sister, Miss Eileen Dibley, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Paul Muldoon of Buffalo, bridesmaid. Deborah Dibley, of Albion, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Lawrence Jones of Palmyra.

Simple Clothes

Rio de Janeiro — (RNS) — Children receiving their First Holy Communion should wear only simple and inexpensive clothing. Jaime Cardinal Camara, Archbishop of Rio de Janeiro, told his flock in a radio broadcast here. He instructed parents and teachers to avoid luxurious and expensive clothing in outfitting the children and criticized the directors of a school who had assessed parents large sums for purchases of clothing. Cardinal Camara suggested simple clothing "within the economic reach of even the poorest parents."

Singing Converts

St. Louis—(NC) — Parishes should make use of "singing converts" to promote better congregational participation in the liturgy, a member of the St. Louis Archdiocesan Commission for Sacred Music said here. Mario Salvador suggested congregational singing of "Catholic hymns the Protestants know" as one means for increased participation by the congregation in the Mass.

Doghouse

By ANNE CULKIN

Dear Miss Culklin: I want to know what you think of this. My brother wouldn't write this letter so I am doing it for him. He's in the doghouse at school. The doghouse is the detention room. He has to go there for one hour each day after school for one month and it's not fair. Here's what happened. The teacher, a priest, left the room and put the boys on their honor not to talk. Two boys did but my brother wasn't one of them, but he was accused of it. He told the priest twice that he didn't talk and then told him who did. Nothing happened to the boys who did the talking. But who is in the doghouse? My brother who didn't talk.

YOUR CHURCH—HOW YOU CAN HELP

YOU ARE, UNDER GOD, OUR MISSION STRENGTH!

WHO YOU ARE WHERE YOU LIVE MAKES NO DIFFERENCE!

ONCE A DAY, DO WITHOUT THE THINGS YOU LIKE BUT DO NOT NEED. Do without comforts, the mid-morning "break," the bed-time snack, the second drink... This is not easy... FATHER JOHN GUGSA sleeps on a dirt floor in a grass hut, amid filth and disease, in MAADRA, ERITREA. He won't leave MAADRA because, without a priest, the struggling, tormented natives would not have the sacraments... FATHER LEON FOGGI finds orphans who wander the streets like stray cats in KENA, EGYPT. He brings them to his little orphanage, washes, feeds and clothes them. He trains them to be self-supporting, decent members of society... IN SOUTH INDIA—in SHERTALLAY and in TRICHUR—SISTERS care for hapless, blank-eyed lepers... In the desert in south JORDAN, one priest travels constantly, searching for caravans of Bedouins. The Bedouins—tent-dwellers—are so poor they haven't even blankets. Thousands nearly froze to death last winter.

DURING THE DAY, AS YOU GO ABOUT YOUR WORK, ASK GOD TO HELP THE PRIEST OR SISTER WHO NEEDS HELP MOST. After all, priests and Sisters are only human too. Or the mission-front in INDIA, JORDAN, EGYPT, SYRIA, LEBANON, IRAN, IRAQ, TURKEY and ETHIOPIA, the sacrifices they make are indescribable. They live face to face with paganism, sometimes hundreds of miles from the nearest priest or Sister. In your own words, ask God to help them.

DO WHAT YOU CAN—NOT JUST NOW AND THEN, BUT REGULARLY—TO HELP OUR PRIESTS AND SISTERS EXPAND THEIR MISSION WORK. It's the only way we, as Catholics, can "restore all things in Christ." The missions need almost everything you can think of—churches, schools, medical clinics, electric lights, running water, inside plumbing. The missions need priests and Sisters, food, clothing, blankets, X-ray equipment, books. You can help by doing without the things you do not need—and by sending the money you thereby save.

"TO HEAR MASS ON SUNDAY... IT'S NOT UNCOMMON to see women and children faint during Mass on Sunday in KANNOTH, INDIA. The reason? The church is so small, the Catholics so numerous, that thousands have to stand outside in the blazing sun to fulfill their Sunday obligation. KANNOTH, which is in the Diocese of TELICHERRY, is off the beaten path—30 miles, for instance, from the nearest hospital. The village was founded when 419 Catholic families moved here from TRAVANCORE, cleared the area (which was jungle-like), and began to cultivate the land. The Bishop of TELICHERRY tells us that a church for the Catholics in KANNOTH is absolutely essential. It will cost $6,000, despite the fact that the men in the parish will do most of the work themselves. Can we, he asks, do something to help? Even $10 seems like a fortune in KANNOTH. Please send as much as you can.

Dear Missignor: Please use the enclosed $... where we need most.
