

Ungrowing Pains

By MARY TINLEY DALY

The Feast of the Epiphany has come and now the Christmas Season has ended.

With the expansion of holiday celebrations—from Thanksgiving, practically, until well after the New Year—has come another kind of expansion at our house, a physical expansion.

We NOTED it first in the Head of the House: his coat gaped between buttons, collars of his shirts suddenly seemed too tight.

bing about it with never an answer, quip that perhaps he was not the only one whose holiday feasting was showing well into the long dull days of January.

Came the day we of the dress-wearing side tried to zip up into one of the holiday frocks and found that even putting a string into the loop and pulling with all our strength wouldn't budge the zipper past a certain spot.

Good heavens! That diet last summer had worked such wonders and here it was all undone.

We began to take stock: there had been the parties, granted. Party food nibbled in bits—portions had seemed so innocuous at the time. Chatting with friends, reaching out for a third-or-that tid-bit somehow hadn't seemed like really eating—not like a great big meal, that is. But, no matter what it had seemed, the good old calories were there. Crackers covered with cheese, salty ham spread, olives, nuts, mints, fruit cake, egg nog.

A little of this added to a little of that had inexorably added more than a little in cumulative effect to the take hold by the bathroom scale, and to the amount of person to be poured, squeezed and zipped into the clothes that used to fit easily.

What to do? Like it or not, there is only one thing to do and that is—go on a diet.

Ugh! A distasteful process, made no easier by food habits that have taken hold so pleasantly and quickly.

We can, of course, pretend that the Lenten season has started early this year and "offer up" the sacrifices but somehow this doesn't quite ring true.

As to meals themselves: breakfast grapefruit will be sugarless, likewise coffee (also sans cream), and toast can have butter or jam, not both. Lunches will have to be merely soup and salad with a glass of skim milk. Dinners? Here is where the Head of the House rebels and we don't blame him.

"A man is entitled to one decent meal a day," he maintains and we go along with that, extending it to women. An Irishman from 'way back, he must have potatoes with his meat, even though they are fattening. But, unbeknownst to him, they can be mashed with hot skim milk, rather than whole milk or better yet, they can be baked and only a tiny pat of butter served on them, with the so-called cream. "Cheating" on the gray can be accomplished by making that gray with a minimum of meat drippings, rich, brown color made up for by the addition of gray-coloring.

GIVING A man his just desserts can be a bit on the sly, too. An attractive compote of fruit, served with a plain cookie can make a fitting ending for a meal, or a bowl of plain fruit. This works for, perhaps, three or four a week. Inevitably comes the request for "a real dessert, like pie." Pie is fine now and then but it need not be his favorite coconut custard or gooey lemon too often. And fruit pies just can't be a la mode if there isn't any ice cream in the refrigerator!

"Forgetting" to stock the refrigerator with ice cream or "running out" of chocolate syrup is a good stunt, too, for the before bedtime snacks.

We are learning, the hard way, to enjoy the late news on television without adding too much poundage. An apple, we tell ourselves, is every bit as good—and much better for us—than a candy bar, ice cream or peanuts.

When Lent does start, we'll be ready for it!

WILL 50 COWS MAKE A CHURCH?

OUR CATHOLICS IN WOBENSIRIK, ERITREA, ARE SHARE-CROPPERS. Poor farmers in a backward country (ERITREA is part of ETHIOPIA), they receive no money for their work... Nevertheless, they're generous. To the "building fund" for the church they hope to build, they have given the following: 50 cows, four tons of stone (they carried it in piece-by-piece from the fields), several tons of sand... Their present church is a "hut" church, not fit for the Blessed Sacrament. Built years ago of mud and grass, it's dank and dirty, beyond repair. Its mud walls are crumbling; during Mass on Sunday, chunks of grass roof keep falling in... The church FATHER GHERESCHER HAMDE plans to build is of permanent, stone construction. It will be large enough to accommodate most of the parishioners (there are 500 Catholics all together). It will be plain and simple, easy to keep clean... The cows have been sold for $1,000—a small fortune in WOBENSIRIK. Men in the parish have built a road to the site of the new church, so that equipment can be brought in. Men, women and children have helped to dig a huge pit for rain water (the water will be needed for cement)... Now, however, all work has stopped. The Catholics in WOBENSIRIK can do no more... To do more requires money—money for building materials. The Bishop, MONSIGNOR ASSRAT MARIAM YEMMIRU, writes us about the need. To finish the church, he says, will cost $4,600... We're looking for 46 "founders" for this mission church—46 American Catholics who will contribute $100 each. Will you be one of them?... Perhaps you can give $50, $25, $20, $10... The Catholics in WOBENSIRIK have given all they can. We want to help them build a church because God has been so good... Please send what you can. God's people in WOBENSIRIK need you.

YOU'RE PART OF THIS TEAM...

THE MISSION TEAM, of course. Priests, Brothers, Sisters, must have food and clothing, a place to sleep... In ERITREA, ETHIOPIA, INDIA, EGYPT, TURKEY, IRAQ, JORDAN, LEBANON and SYRIA, they must have the "tools" to do their work—chapels, classrooms, clinics, catechisms... Want to help them regularly? Pray for them every day; give them your sacrifices, your financial help... In other words, join our MISSION CLUBS... These dollar-a-month (plus a prayer a day) clubs enable our missionaries to plan for the future. When you belong to a mission club, our missionaries know they can count on your help regularly... just as long as you can help them. You can "drop out," of course, whenever you want to, for any reason... Meanwhile, why not join! Select one or more clubs from this list, and write us. We'll send you the details.

Dear Monsignor:

Please  enroll me.  send information about the clubs I have selected.
