At Our House

College Shopping

By MARY TIMLEY DALY

A survey is going on at our house similar to surveys in thousands of other homes. It is known as "Choosing a College," a decision that is of far reaching importance.

This time it is for Ginny, our high school senior who is also a member of that war-borne or children born just after World War II who are now about to storm the colleges and universities of this country.

Like every other prospective freshman, Ginny's choice will be influenced by her own abilities, her particular interests, geographical location of the college, and its costs.

NATURALLY, first popping into mind are the institutions of higher learning attended by other members of the family, all of them rather well-known to Ginny through the years. However, colleges change, conditions change, and simply because a certain college was right for one family member—even a sister close in age—does not mean that it would be ideal for another.

Ginny, a rather independent soul, realizes this, and so do we.

"Let's start off with the theory that you could go, and would be admitted, to any college," the Head of the House said when we started this serious consideration. "What kind would you choose?"

"It would be a small, Catholic girls' college," was the immediate response.

"But you're not a small Catholic girl," quipped one of her sisters.

The sisterly wisecrack was met with an icy stare. "And I'd like one with some journalism courses," Ginny continued.

Certainly this didn't seem too far out of line. Among those we knew meeting these requirements were St. Joseph College.

Emmetsburg; St. Mary-of-the-Woods in Indiana; Barry in Florida; Marygrove in Detroit; Mundelein in Chicago—all fine schools and there must be many more.

Of immense help, indeed an embarrassment of riches, was to be found in the latest "Official Guide to Catholic Educational Institutions," published by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, listing and documenting more than 250 Catholic colleges and universities in the United States. It is on file in many Catholic schools or may be purchased at $2.95 per single copy from N.C.W.C. Official Guide, 370 7th Ave., New York 1, N.Y.

A CAREFUL study of this book proved an eye-opener, giving as it does an over-all view of Catholic educational institutions and serving as an easy first screening, at least to rule out those not adapted to the needs and tastes of prospective students.

Its introductory pages merit careful consideration, featuring realistically such topics as "Why a Catholic Education?" "Who Should Go to College?" "How to Choose a College," "How to Prepare for College," "How to Apply for Admission" and "How to Finance a College Education."

Following is brief but up-to-date essential information on each institution, including type, location, history, accreditation and affiliation, size of student body, programs offered, the instructional staff, admissions requirements, degree requirements, approximate costs, size of library, student services, unusual features, and financial aid possibilities.

Also listed is a description of the Catholic College Admissions and Information Center, formed to assist students who have experienced difficulty in gaining admission to a Catholic college or university, and information for those other than college candidates such as those choosing a boarding school, nursing school, teacher training institutions, the Apostolic training program in the religious life and religious orders for men and women.

Even in our own restricted area, choosing a small, Catholic girls' college, we found an amazingly wide range of choice; in location, type, programs, services, costs.

Next step will be to narrow the choice, write for catalogues, visit the campuses—and hope and pray Ginny can make the grade!

Parents Week End

Daughters Give Way To Parents at Nazareth

Parents of Nazareth College students will take their daughters' places in the classrooms Saturday, October 20, to get a student's eye look at what goes into a college education.

SPECIAL CLASSES will be conducted by three faculty members Saturday afternoon as part of the program for the college's traditional Parents' Weekend which also includes Father-Daughter and Mother-Daughter dinners and guided tours of the campus and college facilities.

Visitors will have an opportunity to sit in on music appreciation, mathematics and drama classes during the afternoon.

In music appreciation, parents will be given "An Introduction to the Universal Language" by Sister Rose Alice, instructor of music. In another classroom, the visiting adults will assume the role of fourth graders as Sister Barbara Anne, associate professor of mathematics, discusses aspects of the "New Mathematics" which is replacing the traditional approach to the subject in area grade schools. And, in the third class, Joseph Baranowski, director of dramatics at Nazareth and St. John Fisher College, will discuss the value of dramatics in the college program and demonstrate how a play is put together.

Parents will also visit Nazareth's foreign language and speech laboratories and the art department, where instructor Ou Mi Shu will demonstrate his painting technique and art students will display their skills in ceramics. A guided tour of the library will also be part of the program.

ANOTHER HIGHLIGHT of the afternoon will be a 2 p.m. panel discussion on the Ecumenical Council. Panelists will be three graduates of the North American College in Rome: the Very Rev. Msgr. George A. Cocuzzi, J.C.D., Vice Chancellor of the Rochester Diocese; the Rev. John A. Reddington, pastor of St. Louis Church, Pittsford (the parish in which Nazareth is located); and the Rev. Robert F. McNamara of the St. Bernard's Seminary faculty. The Moderator will be the Rev. William H. Shannon, chaplain of the college.

Social events on the weekend program include a Parents Mixer at the Irondequoit Country Club Friday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and a Father-Daughter banquet and Mother-Faculty buffet, Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

The weekend will end with an 11 a.m. Mass in the Alma Mater Chapel followed by a Communion Breakfast and a brief business meeting.

INDIA: "THE BENT CROSS"

"WE HAVE SWORN ON THE BENT CROSS" THIS HAS BEEN FOR CENTURIES THE PROUD BOAST OF CHRISTIANS IN INDIA. Portuguese traders landed there in the sixteenth century. Unmindful of the traditions of the Christians they found there, they tried to force them into union with the Holy See. These people traced their Christian faith back to St. Thomas the Apostle, martyred and buried at Mylapur "The Town of Peacocks," a suburb of Madras. During Moslem invasions, the Malabar Christians drifted into schism, adopting first Nestorianism and later Jacobite views, uniting themselves to Antioch with its Eastern, non-Latin liturgy. Unwise Portuguese pressure only deepened Jacobite devotion to their schismatic church. One day they met to swear on a cross the allegiance. So great was the crowd that ropes were tied to the cross that all might come in touch with it. As the people leaned and tugged upon the ropes, the cross itself was bent. Today many of those whose forefathers swore on the bent cross are reuniting with the Holy See. The pastor of the new mission of Attachakal in southern India writes that he has 65 families who have reunited. Another 150 families, including prominent community leaders, are disposed to come into union. He hopes to receive most of them in the next three months. But where shall he receive them? These reunited brothers, Christians from apostolic times, need a church. Land will cost $1,100 and the chapel $2,000. Pope John pleaded in 1954 year of the Vatican Council for reunion among all Christians. What better memorial to this intention at this special time than a chapel for Attachakal?

"ROCK 'N ROLL"
MISSIONARY MAILBAG: What rock 'n' roll means to an American youngster doesn't need any explanation. But for one of our Near East missionaries the phrase can easily have a very different sound. "Rock" means buildings—chapel, a hospital, a children's home. "Roll" suggests eating—something the poor Palestine refugees in their barren tent towns should certainly do more often! Frank K. from California writes: "I am twelve years and most of my money has been spent on rock and roll records and comic books. I decided to give up some of these and give my money to the mission. . . . Thank you, Frank. If every twelve year old boy were as generous as you, we could build many more schools, churches, clinics."

SPEAKING OF GIFTS

IS THERE ANY BETTER WAY to say Thank You, Happy Anniversary, or I Apologize, than by giving people a membership in the CATHOLIC NEAR EAST WELFARE ASSOCIATION. The Spiritual Benefits are incalculable a remembrance in 15,000 Masses each year, for instance a Plenary Indulgence at the instant of death and you have the assurance that what you give will directly benefit the work of the Church in the Near East.
