Aquinas Varsity ready for the "big one" against McQuaid Saturday at War Memorial.

Outcome Anybody's Guess In Aquinas - McQuaid Tilt

Chapter number six of the things that coach Ken Jones has shown the most improvement in, Aquinas - McQuaid basketball, takes encouragement from as he ment over last season, may get story goes into the book this preps for his first stint on the other starting assignment Saturday night at the War Memorial, and it would take a coaching line in a McQuaid-Aquinas game.

His counterpart, Ron Mack of Aquinas, will be coaching his fourth game of the series, having won one of three against McQuaid's former coach, George Monagan, in the past two seasons.

Mack has a squad with little varsity experience but a good deal of potential, much of the latter residing in a pair of 6-5ers — senior Jack Hurley and junior Tom Pestorius. Neither has come close to hitting his stride yet, though their combined efforts have posted a respectable 18 points and 19 rebounds a game. Mack is hoping that one or both of them will come up with that "big night" on Saturday.

LEADING THE Little Irish is senior forward John McCarthy, a consistent scorer (14.2 average) and good rebounder. Pestorius and Hurley will team with him up front, giving the slightly smaller McQuaid team a three-pronged offensive problem.

It's in backcourt, however, that the Little Irish have been looking for a combination that will clock. Mack has been using four seniors — Bob Schwab, Bill Abel, Brian Murphy, and Roy LaForce — interchangeably, and all have had their moments.

Murphy is co-captain along with McCarthy, and probably will be a starter. LaForce, who

Those seven men represent the manpower that Mack will throw into Saturday's battle, so depth is something he isn't blessed with.

McQUAID'S personal picture is more up in the air, though Jones seems set on at least three men as starters. McCabe, at 6-4, McQuaid's tallest man, has a 15-point and 15-rebound average in the two games he's played since getting over a broken wrist.

Fellow senior Dick Spies, showing a 9 point average and leading in assists, will be in backcourt; and 6-1 junior Sam Ianacone, with a 10.3 scoring average and a similar rebounding mark, will be at a forward post.

Six-two Sophomore Tony Leonardo, on the strength of a good game at Mt. Carmel, will probably be at the other forward spot, with the 6-2 Menihan, who became eligible in time to score 8 important points at Mt. Carmel, in immediate reserve.

The other backcourt starter will be either Dick Updow or Jan Yutzy, both seniors who have seen extensive duty in the first three games. Junior Buzz Ashenburg and senior Terry Dunlavy give the Knights additional bench strength at the guard positions.

Aquinas' big advantage appears to be in the height department, with McQuaid's main asset being its better balance. Both teams are in the "developing" stage, and what develops on Saturday night promises to be interesting.

Interest will also focus on McQuaid's undefeated (5-0) junior varsity team against Aquinas' strong 5-1 J.V. squad in the opener. When the two teams met at McQuaid earlier this month, McQuaid just managed to stand off a late Little Irish bid in a 39-37 squeaker.

$3 Million Leaky Roof

Washington — (RNS) — Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.) has asked the General Accounting Office to report to Congress how much extensive repairs to the vaulted roof of the new $3,000,000 chapel at the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado are adding to the cost of the structure.

Sen. Robertson, a vigorous critic of the chapel's ultra-modern design, has asked Comptroller General Joseph Campbell to advise Congress not only the cost of repairing the leaking roof, but also the amount that will be required for annual maintenance.
