

Catechism Classes Enroll 45,000

More than 45,000 Catholic youngsters in public schools receive religious instructions regularly in the Diocese of Rochester according to a report recently made by Rev. Albert Schneck, diocesan director of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

HE ESTIMATES an added 21,000 Catholic pupils are enrolled in other than Catholic schools in the twelve county area of the diocese but do not attend religious instruction. The 21,000 figure includes kindergarten and first grade pupils who are not ordinarily enrolled for religious instruction classes, six thousand college students many of whom are unable to attend Newman Club programs and an estimated 4,500 elementary and high school pupils who fail to attend religious instructions.

According to diocesan school officials, 58,109 pupils attend Catholic schools, kindergarten through college.

FOLLOWING is a tabulation according to parishes of public school pupils enrolled for religious instruction classes:
