

Cardinal Mooney High School in Greece, New St. Ann's Home to be Dedicated

THOUSANDS tour the new Bishop Keaney High School and auditorium for ceremony of dedication Sunday afternoon.

Thousands Tour New High School

Thousands—estimates ran as high as 15,000—looked the "grand tour" of new Bishop Keaney High School in Irondequoit Sunday afternoon, a day of sunshine and ceremony.

Bishop Keaney dedicated the new three-million-dollar school which bears his name by blessing a crucifix and placing it in the school's entrance lobby.

He said the crucifix will remain as the symbol of the education to be given in the school.

"The cardinal has done a great job in Christ Jesus and now personally built another fine school," the Bishop said.

A massive education to prove them inspiring new idea, Bishop Keaney said. According to the Catholic viewpoint, as schooling a "dynamic" relationship will our divine Lord in the soul and the best of all concern and every activity.

"We have turned out brilliant graduates. We may produce incapable men of business. But we must prepare our students by a life of virtue, by a life of grace to be true followers of Christ, potential citizens of heaven. That, beloved, we shall have met the challenge of Catholic education," the Bishop said.

Tuesday Rite At St. Ann's

The new $2,000,000 St. Ann's Home at 1500 Portland Ave. in Irondequoit will be blessed Tuesday, May 7, at 2 p.m.

Bishop Keaney will preside at the dedication rite.

He has described the new home as "a magnificent piece of architecture. The article has not been sacrificed for the practical. The construction provides one of the finest buildings of its kind."

THE NEW ten-story structure provides residence facilities for 305 elderly persons, extensive medical and therapy units and a unique emergency care section.

A 400-seat chapel has a wide aisle for wheelchair participants and specially designed communion railings.

Representatives of city, county and state governments and the Knights of Columbus will attend the Tuesday dedication ceremonies.

Dr. John V. Bourne, assistant Commissioner of the New York City Department of Health, will speak at the dedication.

Other speakers will include Dr. John V. Bourne, assistant Commissioner of the New York City Department of Health, and Dr. John V. Bourne, assistant Commissioner of the New York City Department of Health.
