JFK Meets New Pope

Vatican City—(NC)—Pope Paul VI touched on race relations, space exploration, world peace and American aid to developing countries in a speech given as he received President Kennedy at the Vatican.

Speaking in English, Pope Paul referred to Pope John XXIII's encyclical, Pacem in Terris. When he presented anew to the world the Church's constant teaching on the dignity of the individual human person.

"We are ever mindful in our prayers of the efforts to ensure to all your citizens the equal benefits of citizenship, which have as their foundation the equality of all men because of their dignity as persons and children of God," Pope Paul said.

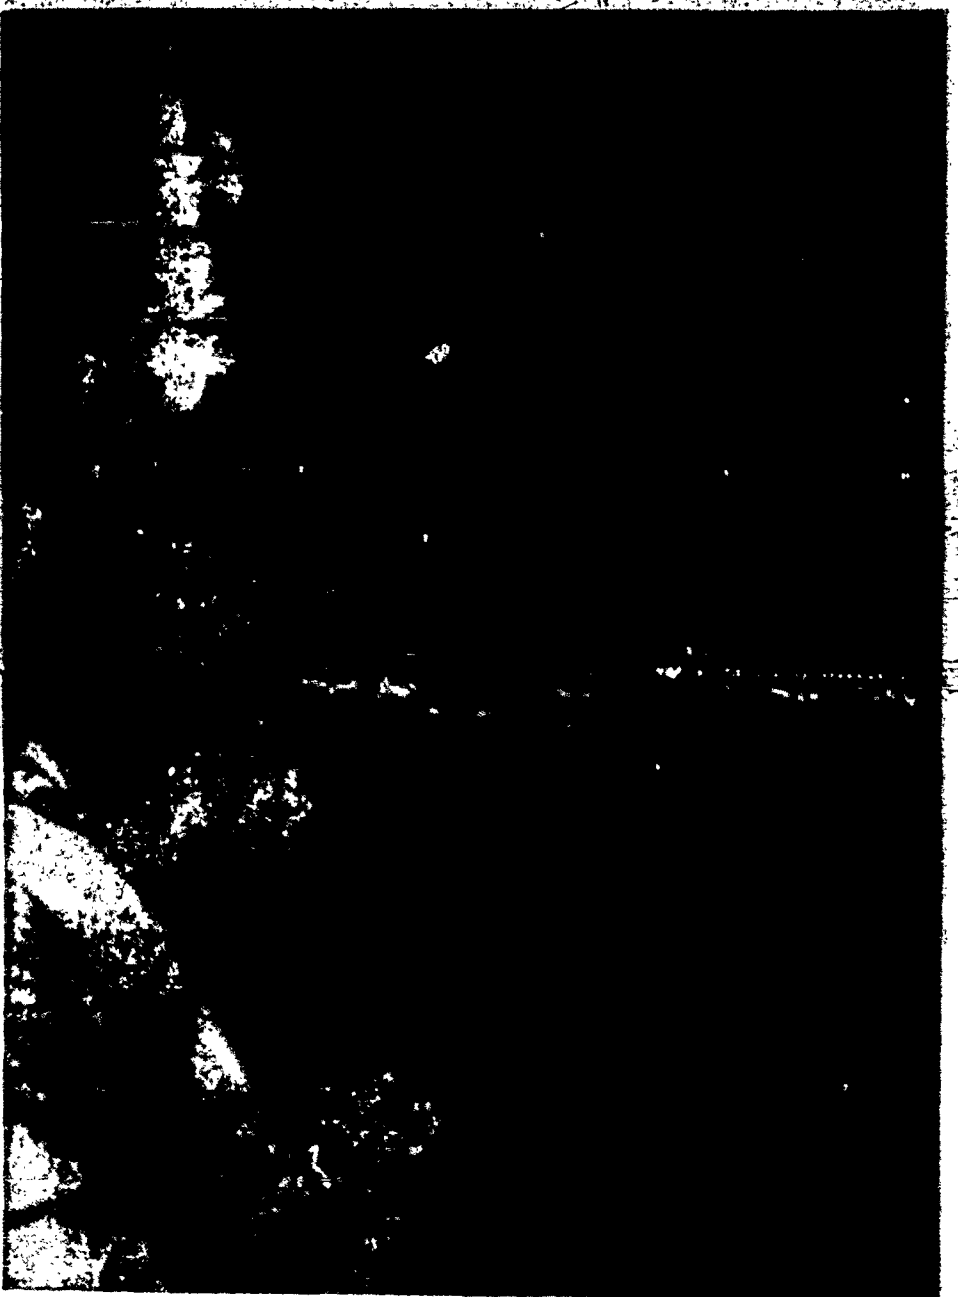

The Pope also noted: "These past few years have seen impressive developments in exploration of space, to which the U.S. has made notable contributions. May these undertakings take on a meaning of homage rendered to God. . . Because they augur so much for the benefit of mankind, may they be indicative of a true and peaceful progress which would bring men together in a closer relationship of universal brotherhood."

Pope Paul told President Kennedy that "the effort to obtain world peace is to be commended highly, and we are confident these labors will find a ready response in all men of good will. Universal peace in charity and justice can be achieved, and we feel the efforts of the U.S. will bear fruit and help to secure for all peoples of this troubled world that peace which will enable them to prosper and enjoy the blessings God intends for them."

Pope Paul mentioned American prosperity and added: "Nevertheless in the midst of this hard-won abundance, your country has not forgotten the high ideals of its first beginnings, nor neglected the poorer nations. As to little cost, the U.S. has responded to all of them a very generous helping hand."

Two Priests Give Rites To Air Crash Victims

Two priests of the Rochester area were on the scene of Tuesday's airport tragedy to give the Church's last rites for the dead.

Basilian Father Russell Pendergast of St. John Fisher College and Father Edward Tolster of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church were ankle deep in mud as they went about their grim chore.

Both voiced high praise for ambulance and fire-fighting crews.

Father Pendergast arrived at the airport at about the time of the crash. He was scheduled for the next flight out to go to Toronto. Father Tolster, hearing so many sirens blaring their way past the Brooks Avenue Church, rushed with the holy oils to the crash scene.

Voices of Modern World To Have Vatican Hearing

Pope Paul VI promised in his coronation sermon "to carry the gospel of Christ to all the nations."

He pledged the world that the Church would "adapt" itself "to the needs of the times" and make the road to Christian unity "attractive, easy and joyful."

He also said he would listen to the voices of this modern world which is also stirred by the Holy Spirit and by God's grace as it seeks justice, progress and peace.

The new Pope spoke in nine languages under a darkening, evening sky as 300,000 filled vast St. Peter's Square for the Catholic Church's first papal coronation rite held in its entirety outdoors.

Pope Paul presided at the three hour rite at a white-draped throne on a crimson-covered platform in front of the huge basilica built above the tomb of St. Peter, first vicar of Christ.

A special altar stood about 70 feet in front of the throne and the Pope faced toward the people as he offered his coronation day Mass.

Skill, Kindness Marks of Pope

By MSGR. JAMES TUCEK

Milan — (NC) — Pope Paul VI brings to the papacy the brilliant oratory and the diplomatic skill of Pope Pius XII and the pastoral experience and expansive charity of Pope John XXIII.

These are the broad lines of the future reign of Pope Paul drawn by three men who worked closely with him when he was Archbishop of Milan.

The opinion of the three, however, is that it would be unfair to compare him with either of his two predecessors in the papacy. His background is different from both Pius and John, they agree, and he will put the mark of his own distinct personality on the papacy in what they foresee as a truly great and fruitful reign.

Msgr. Ernesto Basadonna, chancellor of the Archdiocese of Milan, noted two personal traits which he believes will characterize the reign of Pope Paul.

"First of all," he said, "he has vast intelligence and learning which immediately encompasses a problem and gives it universal application."

"Secondly, he is a man of superior skill and kindness which is based on true Christian charity."

Msgr. Basadonna, who knew Pope Paul for eight years as Archbishop of Milan, drew upon his personal experiences to illustrate these two personal characteristics of his former superior.

HE RECALLED that, when the Pope gave his nine language sermon after the Gospel of the Mass was chanted in Greek and Latin, symbol of the Church's unity despite its many different rites.

The nine languages he used in his address were Latin, Italian, French, English, German, Polish, Spanish, Portuguese and Russian.

Concluding his speech in Russian, he said: "Our thought is also addressed to the whole Russian people, upon whom we call the blessing of the Most High."

IN THE FRENCH portion of the speech, Pope Paul declared: "Permit the new Pope to use a language so widespread and widely understood to declare humbly but strongly to the world at the dawn of his pontificate what feelings motivate him and what attitudes he intends to adopt to the Catholic community the separated churches and the modern world."
