Hungary Agrees To New Bishops

Vienna — (RNS) — Hungary's Deputy Premier Gyula Kallai said here that the Communist regime is willing to approve assignment of six new Roman Catholic bishops to fill diocesan vacancies.

In an interview with Vienna reporters, Mr. Kallai claimed the regime would ask only one guarantee: that the bishops appointed by Pope Paul VI "will respect the laws of the Hungarian state." He added that "nobody in Hungary is harming the Church."

Observers saw his statement as a bid to accelerate Hungary's apparent campaign to reach an agreement with the Roman Catholic Church.

It followed by only a few days a statement made in Vatican City by Bishop Endre Hamvas, ever, that it would be willing to accept a Curia assignment. This was never confirmed. The statement made in the Hungarian Bench of Bishops, who said leave the country; it would not be was "optimistic" about the chances of a Church-State agreement.

"I AM VERY optimistic about the possibility of a resumption of negotiations — and their positive conclusion," he declared.

Of the country's 11 sees, six have been vacant for almost 30 years. During this time they have been filled by Vatican appointed administrators.

Mr. Kallai told newsmen: "Some of the sees are vacant because some bishops have come into conflict with the government. But we have no doubt that these sees can be filled again. We shall make no decisions on the ideological attitude of the new bishops. We shall ask them to respect the laws of the state."

His statement naturally aroused new speculation on the future of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty. The Hungarian Primate has been in asylum in the U.S. since the Communist regime in November, 1956.

In the latter days of Pope John XXIII's reign, Cardinal Koenig, Primate of Austria, visited the primate at the legation. At that time it was said by some observers that the primate wished him to go to Rome to accept a Curia assignment. This was never confirmed. The statement made in the Hungarian Bench of Bishops, who said leave the country; it would not be was "optimistic" about the chances of a Church-State agreement.

Sources in Rome, meanwhile reported that Bishop Hamvas had had a private audience with Pope Paul.

Congress Debates Curb on Top Court

Washington — (RNS) — Pressure is steadily mounting in Congress for consideration of a proposed amendment to the Constitution to overrule the Supreme Court's decision barring prayer and Bible reading as religious exercises in the public schools.

Initial reaction was more restrained than it was in June, 1962, when the Court struck down the nonsectarian Regents' Prayer in the public schools of New York.

However, it is proving more sustained and, as resolution after resolution pours into Congress, an amendment being submitted to the states, it is increasingly evident that, if agreement can be reached on the wording of such an amendment, it probably could command the necessary two-thirds majority in House and Senate.

Ratification by 38 of the 50 states would be required to make it a part of the Constitution. No action by the President is required in the case of Constitutional amendments.

There have been only a few sweeping condemnations of the Supreme Court on the floor of Congress following its June 17

Serrans Akin' to Priest

San Francisco — (NC) — Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco told Serra Club members in convention here that every true Serran has spiritual characteristics "closely akin to the qualities of a good priest."

Every true Serran is faithfully priestly and Eucharistic, the Archbishop said at a brunch (July 8) following a pontifical Mass he offered in St. Ignace church.

Some 2,000 persons took part in the 21st annual convention (July 7-10) of Serra International, which is composed of 243 clubs whose members help foster vocations to the priesthood.

"THE MEMBER of a Serra Club is usually a family man," Archbishop McGucken said. "He is one who has learned that his professional reputation and his prestige in business is secondary to his duty as in raising his family."

He is also a spiritual leader in the home, exercising "mainly initiative in family prayer and devotion," and courage in defending his children "from the corrosive elements of the de-Christianized world," the Archbishop stated.

"The fatherliness of the Serran will protect the grace of the vocation when it honors his own home," he said, "and this same fatherliness will extend far beyond his own backyard."

Archbishop McGucken said that Serrans share in the priesthood by the Sacrament of Confirmation.

"The ordained priests are expected to be mediators between God and men," he continued. "You, the Serrans, can be mediators between the Church and the world. Your lay priesthood is rich and meaningful because yours is an apostolate directly related to the ordained priesthood, to enhance its prestige, to support its work and to augment its ranks."

"You are, therefore, priestly men because you praise and promote the priesthood of Christ in your own family and in the world."

St. Nicholas Group Meets

Missioner Hopes To End Begging

Portland, Ore. — (NC) — A missionary priest from Africa said here he hopes the Second Vatican Council will provide for "a more equitable distribution of both manpower and resources within the Church than there is today."

Describing the "labors of the White Fathers' missionaries of Africa and his own mission in Igbove, Tanganyika, Father J. Owen Granville, W.F., said: "We hope we will no longer be a sort of tolerated branch within the Church, who have to hold out our hands and beg, but that everywhere there will be concern for the Church as a whole, in its weakest and in its growing members."

Father Granville said there were two White Fathers priests at Igbove on mission, to work among 60,000 Wanya Kyisa tribespeople. A neighboring mission has three priests for 125,000 people. The Fathers have the equivalent of 43 cents a day for living expenses.

Presently, he said, priests of his mission follow an "improvised step-baptism," including a four-year period of instruction, which incorporates separate ceremonies when a medal and a cross is presented to the catechumen.

"We use in the liturgy as much as possible of local arts," he said. "The Kyrie, Gloria, Credo and Agnus Dei are sung in the tribespeople's own language, to a tune taken from tribal marriage songs."

During Senate debate, Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi expressed the opinion that "it is still not unlawful, or against the law, as we use that term, for a school that wishes to do so on a voluntary basis, to exercise the right of reading the Bible, or having the children recite the Lord's Prayer."
