St. Rita's Students Campaign For Elections

The halls of St. Rita's School, West Webster, ring with the campaign slogans of the eighth graders as they battle through their Civics Club presidential campaign of 1963. The campaign is set up as closely as possible to our national elections. On Friday, Sept. 21, a nomination took place and parties were formalized. Joseph Gaglio was nominated for the Politician Party while the Aristocratic Party backed Robert McNamee.

Each nominee immediately selected his party manager, campaign speakers, press agent and artists. The Aristocrats' campaign manager, Marie Elenko, agreed on Diana Elenko, Mary Ann Verger, and Linda Pernamenta for poster work for their work for poster work for their agent, Jo Ann Jeggie and speakers, Muriel Mowry, Kathryn Deacon, and Lynn Jones. The Politicians' manager, Bob O'Connell, announced the selection of Cynthia Lynn Engle, followed by a "press conference" open to the seventh and eighth grades and the faculty, while eighth and ninth grade teachers, Sister Mary Gonzaga and Sister Pauline, are directing the activities.

The final speeches will be given by the two party candidates followed by a "press conference" open to the seventh and eighth grades and the faculty, while eighth and ninth grade teachers, Sister Mary Gonzaga and Sister Pauline, are directing the activities.

Don't Wait for Us, Prelate Says

Markham, N.Y.—A leading person receives from the church temporal mission prelate at the Vatican Council of the church principles has contributed to a crisis of obedience in which Christians Aponite said lay Catholics temporal order and which bring to the hierarchy in the church is just that of a brake to restrain people from precipitate action.

He added, however, that such crises and such problems are a sign of life and vitality in the church.

Bishop Elmerius, who was a leader among the liberal-thinking bishops of Africa at the first session of the Council, also emphasized that the laity "are beginning to assert themselves," and this has helped the Church to come out of a period of ghetto-like existence he feels it has been for the last century and a half.

But the padre's fears were dispelled with a simple idea. He would take the picture of any boy caught fighting. As soon as a fight erupts, Father Geisler rushes out with his flash camera and the youth cannot avoid being photographed in an embarrassing situation would restore order immediately.

Lutherans Said Lagging in Ecumenical Role

Minneapolis—(CNS)—Lutheranism is impossible. The time are not yet ready for the church to do enough. Right now, ecumenical encounter expected enough and think enough to develop as a result of so no one can force them to do more in the Roman Catholic Church, a prominent Lutheran theologian said here.

"The Romans have done too much to us in terms of the changes seen in the Catholic community," said Dr. Maxine Quisenberry, "Lutherans have been trying to change under the assumption that the same goes for us."

For theologian a professor at Luther Theological Seminary, Dr. Maxine Quisenberry, said a visiting lecturer at Lutherans Theological Seminary in Gettysburg, Pa., addressed the 50th annual convention of the National Lutheran Editors' and Managers Association.

"It's mainly speaking," Dr. Quisenberry said. "Because Ecumenical and spiritual needs between Lutherans and Roman Catholicism are marked by apostolic simplicity, evangelical pro-
