School Children Join Junior Fire Marshals

Pupils in parochial schools here will join with 4,500,000 boys and girls across the country to help combat the increasing toll of deaths and property damage in fires. The campaign begins this week with the start of the year-long school junior fire marshal program and the annual observance of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6-12.

The objective of the junior fire marshal program is to help eliminate common causes of fires in homes. Boys and girls will inspect their homes for fire hazards with the help of parents. Special check lists are provided for them. When the pupils complete their home reports, they qualify as Junior Fire Marshals.

Schools in this area are among more than 15,000 elementary schools across the country who are participating in the fire prevention and safety program, a national public service of The Hartford Insurance Group.

The junior fire marshal program is sponsored in local schools by Ebert F. Ashley Co. with the cooperation of school officials and the fire department.

The most frequent causes of home fires are worn electrical connections, overloaded circuits, improperly stored flammable liquids or gases, unattended fires, defective heating systems, rubbish, and improper adult smoking habits.

Every family should make a home inspection regularly, according to Frank Donnelly, fire safety expert. He emphasized on items on the junior fire marshal report that will help to save lives: planning in advance escape routes from every room in the house for every member of the family if a fire should break out.

The school children completing the home report and qualifying as junior fire marshals will receive an official badge and a plastic fire helmet from the Ebert F. Ashley Co. The school which does the best job of completing reports will receive a special junior fire marshal achievement award flag.

Through the program, the schools are provided with fire prevention and safety material, including filmstrips, copies of the Junior Fire Marshal Map

Refresher Course For Nurses in Progress

The 45 professional nurses attending the six-week refresher course at St. Mary's Hospital, under the direction of Donald Insley, R.N., are entering the third week of their program.

On Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 7:30 p.m., they will hear Dr. Anthony Talamo discuss the conditions and uses of the artificial kidney. After the discussion by Dr. Talamo, the class will hear and observe Mr. Insley demonstrate the latest techniques for intravenous and electrolyte therapy.

Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Edward Warden, hospital endocrinologist, will discuss the changes in the diagnosis and treatment of diabetes. Afterward the class will hear from Miss Helen Fleming, B.S., nutrition instructor in the School of Nursing, who will talk on diets and diet therapy.

These classes began on Tuesday, Oct. 4 at which time the attending nurses heard Insley give the general outline of the course after which he introduced Sister Winifred, administrator. She spoke to the group about the complex nature of hospital management. Her remarks dealt with the voluntary hospital which has undergone such rapid social change in the past fifty years that it no longer is custodial in nature but rather scientific. Today, the hospital is expected to keep pace with the newest techniques and procedures developed by medical science so that it can ably serve the public and the community.

Sister Mary Agnes, R.N., M.S.N., director of nursing service, followed these remarks with a description of the goals of nursing service and told how today's nurse participates to fulfill her role in total patient care.

Thursday evening the class heard Sister Victoria, R.N., M.S.N., director of the School of Nursing, who discussed the shift to the 24-hour year school program, a basic change in nursing education. She also discussed the program which releases the nurse student from 'service' and allows her to develop her role through educational and clinical methods. Insley also spoke on the concept and practice of 'team nursing.'

Keamey High Tops Leroy

Bishop Keamey's J.V. football team won their third straight contest Saturday with a 33-0 conquest of Leroy. Rick Coleman started the scoring for the Kings on a five yard jump midway through the first period. Coleman again reached paydirt early in the second quarter when he took a pass from Phil Smith and galloped 55 yards for the score. Smith added three markers himself in the second half on runs of 2, 3, and 3 yards.

Good individual performances were also turned in by Tom Bailey on offense and Scott Shales on defense. The game was much closer than the score indicates as Keamey was held pretty much in check until late in the third quarter. The heat start for the Kings will be this Saturday against Batavia.

Team Donorship
 Washington (AP) — St. John College, Cleveland, will be lent $1,700,000 in Federal funds for construction of a women's residence hall and dining facilities. The loan will be made by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency under the College Housing Loan Program.

Negro Clinic's Book Reviewed

The Rev. Martin Luther King's latest book, "Strength to Love," will be reviewed in the November Book Review at the Catholic Evidence Library next Thursday, Oct. 15 at 12:30 p.m. The Rev. Robert Knebel, moderator of the Catholic Interracial Council, will handle the critique.

MARTIN LUTHER KING, Negro minister, scholar and statesman, has become the symbol of the Negro social revolution in America. Since his leadership of the Birmingham, Ala. boycott in 1952, he has attracted national prominence. He is an advocate of "non-violent persuasion" which is a peaceful withdrawal from his civilization and study of Mahatma Gandhi.

This book is an anthology of his talks for addresses on the race question, Communism and the social responsibilities of the Church.

Father Knebel is assistant pastor of Immaculate Conception Church. The November Book Review takes place at the Library on 30 Chestnut Street, alternate Tuesdays through the Fall and Winter months.
