McQuaid Wins Swim Meet

McQuaid Jesuit High's swimmers established a modest-enough school record on Tuesday with its third win of the season, the first time that the Knight mermen have liken that many meets in one campaign. Gates-Chili was the victim by a 56-43 count, and, as might be expected, the meet was decided in the final relay.

The McQuaid sprint combination of Larry Oakley, Bob Brancato, John Sheehan, and John Wagner brought home the winning 7 points with a 1:48.2 clocking for the 200 yards.

Earlier, senior Kevin Culhane and sophomore Dave Mullins had each thrown a pair of victories into the kitty, Culhane capturing the 100-yard freestyle in 55.4 and the individual medley in a pool record time of 1:26.8. Mullins took the 100-yard butterfly in a fast 1:05.2 after winning the 200-yard freestyle in an equally fast 2:18.6.

Other McQuaid winners were freshman Ed Murrer in the backstroke (1:15.1) and freshman Pete Harman in the breaststroke (1:15.4) as well as the medley relay of Murrer, Harman, John Odenbach, and Wagner (2:03.8).

Placing for the Knights were Sheehan in the 50 (3rd), Dan Peitscher in diving (2nd), Paul McLaughlin in the backstroke (3rd), and Odenbach in the 400 (3rd).

The Knights, who have dropped 2 meets this year, will face a powerful Brighton squad this afternoon, with individual bids by Mullins and Culhane promising to be features.

Hello Dolly!

By EUPHEMIA WYATT

HELLO DOLLY! — At last it has come — the musical that Broadway can accept without reservations. The most spirited since My Fair Lady, the fun this time being due to Thornton Wilder whose adaptation of a German farce as The Merchant of Yonkers was very tepidly received in 1938 but which rewritten for the Edinburgh Festival as The Matchmaker burst into popularity in 1955 with Ruth Gordon as Mrs. Levi, Eileen Herlie as Mary Molloy and Arthur Hill (now in Virginia Woolf) and Robert Morse (How to Succeed) as the two clerks.

The story is the same; the rich old curmudgeon of Yonkers, Mr. Vandergelder, being cozened into marriage by Mrs. Dolly Gallagher Levi and Mr. Vandergelder's two downtrodden clerks stealing off for a day in New York and running into their Boss at Miss Molloy's Millinery Shop and the Harmonia Restaurant. Mrs. Levi is now Carol Channing in the most preposterous of wigs and hats and Mary Molloy is Eileen Brennan (Little Mary Sunshine).

Oliver Smith has provided some fantastically clever pictures of Yonkers and Fourteenth Street, New York enlivened by a steam puffing engine and a dancing cab horse; Freddy Wittop has contributed pleasantly extravagant costumes and gala hats with a really melodious score by Jerry Herman composer of Mack and Mabel. There's a rousing chorus with most amusing and original action by Gower Champion whose choreography is exceptional throughout the show.

"Ribbons down my Back" is sung charmingly by Miss Brennan; Miss Channing gets to base with "Before the Parade Passes By" and after the fun of the Waiters' Ballet, their "Hello Dolly!" climbs to a climax with Dolly leading a march on a very narrow runway over the orchestra pit in red velvet and a lace hat a full yard high.

The clerks dodging under tables and in and out of closets is as good fun as ever in the Hat Shop in the Harmonia Restaurant the chase is now through the cabaret show of Rose and Butterfly girls. It is in the Police Court where they all end up, till rescued by Dolly, that Charles Reilly as Cornelius Hackl sings "It Only Take a Moment," the first love song of the evening. Miss Channing has discarded her Lorelei cuteness for a smiling goodnaturedness as compelling as a steam roller. Her Dolly is here to stay.

THE CHINESE PRIME MINISTER — Herself a septuagenarian, Enid Bagnold, author of The Chalk Garden, has undertaken to explore old age and wisdom in terms of polite comedy. Written, it is said, for the Lunts, it is now played to perfection by Miss Margaret Leighton who, listed in the program as "She," believes that at the unripe age of seventy, it is time for her to retire and munch the fruits of wisdom like a Chinese P. M. Alas, though age may be measured — more or less — by years, wisdom needs to be enriched by values rarely found in an artist's egocentric life of adulation.

Her two sons are busy with their own lives and wives; one wife beautiful but wanton; the other a determined girl in slacks who shoplifts when her husband is stingy and distrusts celebrities. Even the ancient butler fetters out of life. Then She recalls the husband, absent for 29 years as a promoter of Far Eastern oil wells. Sir Gregory returns with omantic enthusiasm and diamonds and She runs off with him on a second honeymoon! At this point, we started to leave, remarking "A delightful evening —", but Miss Bagnold has added Act III. It is five months later. The pleasant drawing-room designed by Oliver Smith is swathed in dust sheets and from under one of them there appears the tottering butler, revivified.

Then the honeymooners return from Africa, ready to rip the dust sheets off their old careers. The beautiful daughter-in-law has turned to promiscuity; the other to skirts and maternity. Sir Gregory rushes off to Arabia; the butler dies only to revive a second time and She brings down the final curtain with undoubtedly the ugliest last line ever heard in the theatre. John Williams, as usual, is excellent as Sir Gregory; so is Alan Webb as the moribund butler. The sons are Douglas Wilmer and Peter Donat with Diane Kagan making an attractive Broadway debut as the forthright young wife. Joseph Anthony is the director of the Bagnold comedy which sparkles for two acts and lags in the third.

TOO MUCH JOHNSON — William Gillette who was to identify himself with Sherlock Holmes for 30 years, wrote and acted in Too Much Johnson in 1894, when he shattered New York's funny bone as Mr. Billings the incorrigible liar. I fear that nowdays no matter how happy a married man could be in Yonkers, he would never go to so much trouble to keep his wife in decent ignorance of his indiscretions. But nothing is too much bother for Billings who finds himself taking his pretty Mrs. Billings and her mother on a trip to Cuba and visit to a sugar plantation he claims as his own only to find it has been sold by his friend to a dangerously belligerent rancal.

I remember Mr. Gillette very well; a tall handsome man with a poker face who in Sherlock Holmes and Secret Service delighted in being cool, canal and intrepid. John McMartin, the present Billings is cool and casual but jovial. Nancy Berg is pretty enough as the wife to be worth the intricate deceptions; Mary Finney is her imposing mother; Niels Miller, as Justice of the Peace, makes every minute on the stage a funny one. The sets by the Eckarts and the costumes by Patricia Zipprodt are both very pleasing. For those not ashamed of being amused in the theatre, Too Much Johnson offers most agreeable relaxation.

Peter Nero Concert At College Weekend

PETER NERO

A jazz concert by one of the most popular pianist-entertainers will provide one of the highlights of this year's Nazareth College Winter Weekend, Feb. 7-9.

RCA Victor Recording star Peter Nero will appear Saturday, Feb. 8, for a 9-11 p.m. concert at St. Agnes High School. Tickets will be available at the door.

Nero, whose style consists of a subtle blending of classical and jazz music, has become a favorite entertainer in concert halls, supper clubs and on college campuses. He also makes frequent appearances on television variety shows and specials. His musical efforts have extended to composing, arranging and recording and present plans include composing for the Broadway musical theatre.

Other highlights of the weekend will be a snow sculpture contest, a dance at the Manger Motel, and a cabin party at Hillcrest Park.

A Winter Weekend Queen will be announced during intermission of the Friday night dance. Each class will nominate a candidate.

Theme of the weekend will be Fete de la Neige (Holiday in Snow).

The weekend schedule is as follows:

Friday, Feb. 7: Afternoon, snow sculpture judging; 9 p.m.-1 a.m.: Dance in the Manger Hotel Ballroom. Syl Novelli Orchestra.

Saturday, Feb. 8: 1-5 p.m.: Ellison Park Cabin Party. Winter sports, lunch, dancing.

9-11 p.m.: Peter Nero jazz concert at St. Agnes High School.

Sunday, Feb. 9: 11 a.m. Mass followed by Communion Breakfast.

General Co-chairmen of the Winter Weekend committee are Nancy Griffin and Rosemary Fass. Other committee chairmen are: Ann O'Brien and Katherine Smith, dance; Elaine Di Flavio, cabin party; Peggy Rooney, jazz concert; Mary Jo Spencer, snow sculpture; Nancy Jo Geiger, communion breakfast; Joyce Kousch and Mary Kay Baker, coronation; Patricia Herrling, Katherine Sullivan and Maureen Mooney, publicity.

Legion Dance

Annual Valentine Dance of Richard Stoll Post 1463, American Legion is scheduled Feb. 15 at the German Club auditorium, 315 Gregory St., 8-12 p.m. Music by Karl Adams orchestra. Short entertainment program is planned.

Films Set At Museum

Changes in plants and animals over hundreds of thousands of years and a tour of the Caribbean are featured on the Sunday Family Program at Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences on Sunday, Jan. 26, at 2:30 p.m. and again at 3:30 p.m.

The first film is titled, "From Sand Dune to Forest" and the second film tours Antigua, Barbados, Martinique, Trindad, Tobago and Jamaica. It shows the way of life including farming, fishing, handicrafts and a steel band.

Drum Corps Pageant Set

"Soundoff 64," fourth annual drum corps pageant sponsored by Emerald Cadets and Rice-Hallick Post, VFW, will be staged at Rochester Community War Memorial Saturday, Feb. 29 at 8 p.m.

Five junior drum and bugle corps will compete for prizes in various categories of drum corps techniques.
